Chicago Won't See Roosevelt, Reporters Told

President Will Stay
In Washington While Party Picks Nominee

Chicago —(P)— The Democratic national committee after a stiff fight between northern and southern states adopted today a compromise delegate "bonus" plan granting an additional delegate at large to future national conventions to each state casting a majority for the party's presidential nominee.

Washington —(P)— President Roosevelt said at a press conference today he definitely would not go to Chicago to attend the Democratic convention but again he avoided every question designed to bring about a disclosure of his third-term stand.

The chief executive was asked whether, if he did go to Chicago, he would fly. Throwing back his head and laughing, Mr. Roosevelt said he thought he had a right to be insulted, as the question, following his statement that he would not go to the convention city, was a slur on his veracity.

Mr. Roosevelt's hearers interpreted his flat statement that he would not go to Chicago to mean that not only would he not be there during the convention but also that he would not go there, in event of a draft nomination, to make an acceptance speech.

The president appeared to be in high good humor as he met the press for the last time before his party opens its quadrennial meeting Monday.

Plans Cruises
Replying to questions the chief executive said his plans for the summer called for him to spend alternate weekends on cruises down the Potomac river and at his home at Hyde Park, N. Y.

The president asserted that the administration would go ahead with its present policy of maintaining standards under the wage-hour act for work on the defense program.

The chief executive read to reporters a letter which he said Colonel Philip B. Fleming, wage-hour administrator, had written him which covered the question of the necessity of raising the ceiling for hours above which time and a half must be paid.

Fleming informed the president that any complaints from key defense industries that the payment of time and a half for overtime was making their operation difficult would be brought promptly to Mr. Roosevelt's attention. The administrator added that only three such complaints, all from small establishments, had been received.

Urged to Run
After the press conference the president received an appeal that he run again when Oscar Chapman, assistant secretary of the interior, escorted John Carroll, district attorney at Denver, in to the executive office.

"I wanted the president to meet the next governor of Colorado," Chapman told reporters, "and we urged him to run again." (The present governor of Colorado is Ralph L. Carr, a Republican.)

Carroll remarked that there were some Democrats left in Colorado, although the state was playing host to the Republican presidential nominee, Wendell L. Willkie.

"We will build him up during his vacation," Carroll predicted, "and let him down at the election. You remember Alf M. Landon was out there in 1936, and the sunflowers bloomed—and then went to seed in the fall."

Air Warfare At Record High

King Has Narrow Escape in Raid on Southern England

London —(P)— With R. A. F. attackers matching their German foe-men raid-for-raid and with defense forces leveling an unrelenting toll on planes attacking the British Isles, the air war of western Europe reached a new peak of intensity today.

The day's first casualty report came from northeast Scotland where it was said one bomb killed 10 persons "as far as known" and injured many others. The plane which dropped it was shot down and the crew perished in flames. On the basis of official and unofficial reports, the tabulation of German planes shot down today in defense of the British Isles and British shipping stood in mid-afternoon as follows:

Scotland, one bomber; east coast, four bombers; south coast, one bomber; southwest coast, two planes of unspecified type.

The "all out" attack of the Nazi air force was still to come, but so widespread have been the daily assaults already that King George VI himself narrowly escaped death or injury yesterday somewhere in southern England.

Wave after wave of heavy British bombers blasted military objectives last night deep in Germany, it was reported by aviation circles in anticipation of an official outline of new British-wrought destruction.

Three British planes failed to return. During raids yesterday on German-occupied France and the Netherlands, it was announced, one British bomber penetrated far into Germany's industrialized Ruhr valley and in broad daylight attacked oil depots.

The defenders of the British Isles started a new tabulation of

Chicago Center Of GOP Campaign

Chicago —(P)— Charles B. Goodspeed, treasurer of the Republican national committee, announced today that Wendell L. Willkie's campaign for president would be directed from a national headquarters at 120 S. LaSalle street.

He said a large suite of offices had been rented and that the Republicans' national campaign would get under way as soon as the Washington staff could move in.

As in 1936, Goodspeed said, a New York headquarters would be set up to direct the party's drive for votes in the eastern states.

John D. M. Hamilton, executive director of the Republican national committee, will have his office here. A director for the eastern headquarters has not been selected.

Elderly Woman Leaps From Building After 6-Hour Deliberation

Chicago —(P)— An elderly woman leaped from a three-story building on Washington boulevard early today, nearly six hours after she climbed to the rooftop and shouted her intention to jump.

Taken to a hospital in a critical condition, she was identified as Mrs. Anna Kroll, 55, a tenant of the building for three months.

Two police officers who chanced to be in the neighborhood discovered Mrs. Kroll on the rooftop shortly after midnight. They summoned a fire department rescue squad. Mrs. Kroll leaped when squad members ignored her threat to jump if they approached.

Witnesses said many persons had spent most of the evening watching Mrs. Kroll and that at times the street crowd had numbered 100. But no one notified authorities.

Rival Factions See Victory at Mexican Polls

Ballots at Separate
Polling Places Big
Question in Dispute

Mexico City —(P)— Mexico's political situation remained uncertain today as the country faced the prospect of two rival groups claiming seats in congress and two powerful political leaders claiming the presidency when Lazaro Cardenas' term expires Dec. 1.

The party of General Juan Andreu Almazan, independent anti-administration candidate, issued a statement saying the "only legitimate congress" would be "installed Sept. 1" and that before this congress "the president-elect of the united states of Mexico, General Juan Andreu Almazan, will take the oath of office Dec. 1."

Claim 5 to 1 Margin

This countered an earlier claim by the Cardenas-created party of the Mexican revolution that its candidate, General Manuel Avila Camacho, had won a 5 to 1 majority throughout the country.

The issue apparently boiled down to settlement of this question: Are the votes cast Sunday in separate voting places established by Almazan's followers, and the tabulations made yesterday in separately-established Almazan tabulation centers, to be recognized?

The government previously had termed such establishments illegal. But Almazan's partisans, claiming big majorities for their man, asserted "imported gunmen" had prevented their attending the official tabulation centers, while on Sunday they were prevented from voting at many places. They claimed their only recourse therefore had been to set up their own voting and vote-counting centers.

Britain Backs Haile Selassie

Admits Ethiopia to Status of Ally in Present Conflict

London —(P)— Great Britain has decided to recognize the government of Emperor Haile Selassie "as the lawful government of Ethiopia," R. A. Butler, undersecretary for foreign affairs, informed the house of commons today.

This would be a direct reversal of Britain's action on Nov. 16, 1938, in formally recognizing Italian sovereignty over conquered Ethiopia.

The deposed emperor has lived in England as a private citizen ever since.

Butler informed commons that contact had now been made between the British government and Haile Selassie, whom he referred to as the "emperor of Ethiopia," and that the Selassie government "will be recognized as the lawful government of Ethiopia and admitted to the full status of ally in the present war, with assurances that Ethiopia's independence will be assured when the war is won."

C. W. Martin, Ethiopian minister in London at the time of the Italian conquest, said at least 300,000 to 400,000 Ethiopians were ready to fight Italy if they had sufficient arms.

He said some had been fighting with guns taken from the Italians but needed many more, particularly artillery.

Furthermore, Butler said, British and "Ethiopian" forces are to coordinate "all activities likely to damage the enemy's effort in north and east Africa and in Abyssinia (Ethiopia)."

Planes, Hangars are

Oklahoma City —(P)— Wind reaching a maximum of 70 miles an hour piled up a dozen planes at Oklahoma City's municipal airport last night and nearly-completed barracks at an aeronautics school in Tulsa collapsed.

U. S. Seeks 6,000 Tanks For Defense Program

Marshall Says
Forced Service
Now Necessary

Would Call National Guard Before Start
Of General Draft

Washington —(P)— General George C. Marshall told the senate military affairs committee today that compulsory military training was "immediately necessary" to bring regular army and national guard units to full strength.

In this connection he said he believed that at the start of any training program the national guard, with its 230,000 men available on first mobilization, should be called up first.

Asked subsequently whether he desired to "mobilize the national guard immediately," he replied affirmatively.

His questioner, Senator Hill (D-Ala.), suggested that it would be a matter of "justice to men in the guard" to call them up for training.

National Guard Increase
"I think it would be most unfair for them to be confronted with the possibility of being thrown hurriedly into service without an opportunity to prepare themselves," Marshall commented.

Explaining the guard would muster 230,000 men on first mobilization, Marshall said the pending legislation would bring its strength to a total "just short of 400,000."

In any case, he said, guard mobilization should be carried out at least four weeks before the proposed conscription program went into effect.

Assurances that officers and men of the national guard were "ready and willing" to respond to a summons to active service were received, meanwhile by the war department.

Favors Wadsworth Bill
The assurances were contained in a letter to Secretary Stimson from Brigadier General Walter A. DeLamar, president of the National Guard association, and Brigadier General Charles H. Grahl, president of the Adjutants General association.

The army chief of staff testified that a compulsory training bill introduced by Senator Burke (D-Neb.) and Representative Wadsworth (R-N. Y.) would be in accord

Firms Receive U. S. Warning

Face Prosecution if
They Misrepresent
Increases in Prices

Washington —(P)— The treasury threatened prosecution today of dealers allegedly misrepresenting price increases as due to new defense taxes.

A department statement reminded dealers that they were subject to fines up to $1,000 or imprisonment up to one year, or both, if convicted of misrepresenting the portion of prices caused by federal taxes.

The statement said: "The bureau of internal revenue has had its attention called to the fact that in certain instances dealers in articles subject to the internal revenue taxes have raised the prices of these products to consumers in amounts considerably in excess of the defense taxes imposed by the revenue act of 1940."

"The bureau has received reports that a number of such dealers have represented to their customers that such increases in prices are due solely to the imposition of the defense taxes."

The statement did not identify the products involved, nor did it give the names or localities of the offenders.

However, officials pointed out that the recent tax increases amounted to 1 cent on a package of cigarettes, $1 a barrel on beer, 75 cents a gallon on whisky, 1 per cent on refrigerators, radios, automobiles and automobile parts, 4 per cent per gallon on gasoline, and 1 cent per pound on tires.

Driver, 2 Passengers
Die as Greyhound Bus
Collides With Truck

Toledo, Ohio —(P)— A collision between a Greyhound bus and a cattle truck brought death today to the bus driver and two passengers and injury to 11 persons.

Among the injured was the truck driver, Gerald Nye, 19, of Napoleon, Ohio, who was quoted by the sheriff's office as saying he must have dozed enroute home with his empty truck.

The dead were driver John French of Fort Wayne, Ind.; Jesse Copeland, Detroit; and Mrs. Beulah Cund, Muncie, Ind. The bus was enroute from Indianapolis to Detroit.

Few Reds or Nazis are Revealed in WPA Poll

Washington —(P)— The estimated thirty-odd thousand communists and nazis on work relief pay rolls either abandoned their WPA jobs quietly before July 1 or falsified their party affiliations, officials concluded today.

Thus far, they said, a nationwide questionnaire poll of more than a million WPA workers has turned up only four persons acknowledging communist sympathies—two in New York, one in Detroit, and one in Philadelphia.

The poll was ordered under the 1940-41 relief act, which directed the dismissal by July 1 of all who answered that they were aliens, communists, nazis, or advocates of violent overthrow of the government.

The estimate of 30,000 communists and nazis represented an arbitrary figure, officials said. It assumes the correctness of the recent statement of Colonel F. C. Harrington, WPA, commissioner, who asserted that "not more" than 2 per cent of the July roster belonged to either group.

Easy to Quit Rolls
It would be comparatively simple, authorities explained, for communists or nazis to drop out rather than publicly proclaim their connections. Any WPA worker absent five days or more automatically is suspended.

Approximately 100,000 persons voluntarily left WPA rolls in both May and June. It is entirely possible, officials said, that a great number of these were communists and nazis.

If not, they said, it would be extremely difficult to determine how many, if any, answered their questionnaires incorrectly.

No figures were available on the number of aliens or violence advocates who have been dropped. Officials said that previously they had expected a full count by July 15 on all persons dismissed under the 1940-41 act, but that now they doubted whether there ever would be anything like an accurate enumeration.

Pullman Firms
Face U. S. Action

Philadelphia —(P)— A nationwide justice department investigation of the railroad sleeping car setup moves today into federal district court in a civil action against the Pullman companies and an imposing list of financial leaders.

Seeking to separate the manufacture of sleeping car equipment from its operation, the department charged in a statement outlining its case that the Pullman companies:

"Have refused to operate modern light-weight railroad equipment purchased by the railroads from any manufacturer other than the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, and have threatened to withdraw the existing sleeping car service and operations if railroads should buy and operate themselves any cars made by other manufacturers."

Further, the department said, it would attempt to prove that the Pullman organization through an operating monopoly "charges the public artificial and unreasonably high prices for Pullman accommodations, and exacts non-competitive and onerous terms from railroads for the sleeping car service which it provides."

Hospital Branch
Burns, Five Die

Cincinnati —(P)— Five persons died and at least two others were burned severely as fire early today trapped 30 residents and employees on the third floor of the Holy Family home, a branch of St. Francis hospital.

The dead were: Mary Rose Watkins, 42; Mary Theders, 57; Minnie Brandhoff, 57; Regina Niekamp, 45, and Rosaline Burns, 41, all residents.

Now, Mrs. Carcutt is missing.

U. of W. Faculty Group Will Study Part in Defense Setup

Madison —(P)— President Clarence A. Dykstra, of the University of Wisconsin, announced today the appointment of a faculty committee to evaluate what the university was doing and should do for national defense.

The committee will concentrate on research problems and its first job will be to determine what can be done in the line of scientific investigations to further the defense program, Dykstra said.

Army Backs Draft Plan In Congress

Washington —(P)— A formidable army striking force of some 6,000 tanks—several hundred of them huge land battleships—was disclosed today as one major objective in President Roosevelt's new $4,848,171,957 preparedness program.

Persons familiar with plans behind the dollar marks said the intention was to double the total of 3,100 tanks which now are either in service, on order, or covered by appropriation.

Only Germany, they said, possesses a tank force of such potential striking power, according to available information. The projected American equipment, they explained, would include squadrons rivaling the 70-ton tanks which spearheaded victorious Nazi thrusts in Europe.

Signs multiplied, meanwhile, that the war department was thinking in terms of an army of 1,200,000 troops—the bulk of it to be raised within the next few months by compulsory military training.

Drive In Progress
The recruiting drive now in progress aims at building up the regular army to 380,000 men by Aug. 30. A 1,200,000 force would include national guard units, now mustering more than 200,000.

General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, urging compulsory service, declared yesterday:

"We must have an increase in our armed forces and we can not expect to get it on a voluntary basis."

From other sources it was learned the general staff is convinced that 1,200,000 men should be put under arms as soon as possible and trained for any emergency.

In this connection, it was said, congress eventually will be told that the $4,000,000 already appropriated or asked for the army is $2,000,000 short of the amount needed to put 1,200,000 fully equipped men in the field, and provide arm-and-ammunition for 200,000.

Place Large Orders
The plans for tanks and troops divided attention with these other defense developments of yesterday:

Assistant Secretary of War Johnson announced that munitions contracts totaling $280,000,000 had been placed since July 1, but said it would be a year before the needs of an expanding army and national guard could be met.

The national defense commission similarly reported $100,000,000 in aircraft orders during the same period. The eventual purchase of 25,000 warplanes was involved, and delivery on the first planes is expected this fall, the full order to be completed in two years.

Congress sent to the White House the "two-ocean" navy bill, authorizing $4,600,000,000 construction program to increase the fleet's combat strength by 70 per cent.

War department contracts for arms and supplies costing $46,197,142 awarded since June 16, were announced yesterday by Johnson.

They included a $78,150 order to the Leach company of Oshkosh, Wis. for real units and parts, and $208,675 to the Heil company, Milwaukee, for trailers, dollies and spare parts.

Company Told to Disband Unions

Pittsburgh —(P)— The national labor relations board, in a preliminary decision in its longest and costliest case, ordered the $125,000,000 Weirton Steel company today to dissolve independent unions at two plants and reinstate with back pay 17 of 300 employees who claimed they were dismissed for union activity.

At the same time, the board refused to recognize the CIO's Steel Workers' Organizing Committee—which filed the charges against the company—as bargaining agent for Weirton's employees.

The decision was based on the board's four-year-long proceeding against the company headed by Ernest T. Weir, New Deal foe who successfully challenged the NRA and has frequently criticized administration of the Wagner labor act as long as government interference with business.

Milk Wagon Drivers Refuse Wage Contract

Chicago —(P)— A mass meeting of the milk wagon drivers' union turned thumbs-down last night on a wage contract offered by Chicago dealers, thus tossing their lengthy dispute into the lap of a board of arbitrators.

The union called its members out on strike on two different occasions last May after dealers proposed to reduce the drivers' 83.3-per-week basic wage scale. The dealers' latest offer was represented as a 440-per-week guaranteed wage.

Since the close of the last strike, May 26, the two sides have sought unsuccessfully to negotiate their differences. Attempted settlement now is left to an arbitration board of three members which will start its work next Monday.

Greener Range On G.O.P. Side, Willkie Predicts

Willkie's 'Vacation' Gets Underway With Talk at Cowboy Dinner

BY WILLIAM B. ARDERY
Colorado Springs, Colo. (P)—Wendell L. Willkie, adopting a cowboy idiom to predict his election in November, told a "chuck-wagon dinner" crowd that after next January "the chuck is going to be better and the range greener."

The Republican nominee was the guest of the Colorado Springs "community cowhands" at an open-air, informal dinner on the eve of his departure for Denver and today's meeting with the Colorado Republican state committee.

"I want you to come home to me on the range on the banks of the Potomac," the nominee told a cheering gathering of local citizens, several hundred of whom were bright cowboy outfits.

Willkie spent most of yesterday resting. He drove to the informal steak dinner with Governor Ralph Carr of Colorado and received frequent cheers as he walked about the grounds.

A cowboy blared away, and Willkie joined in the singing of "Home on the Range"—President Roosevelt's favorite tune. Among those present at the dinner was C. Wayland Brooks, Republican nominee for the senate in Illinois. Brooks, in a short address, described Willkie as the man of the hour in America.

"Illinois delivered the man in the last great crisis," Brooks said with reference to Lincoln, "and now Indiana has a man for this one."

Richard J. Lyons, former member of the Illinois house of representatives, asserted in an address that his state would go for Willkie.

"This is not a political campaign," Lyons asserted. "This is a crusade for a return to decency in government."

Marshall Says Forced Service Now Necessary

with war department views after a few minor changes.

The Burke-Wadsworth bill would require registration of all men between 18 and 65 years, with training in the army and navy for those selected between 21 and 45 years.

"Some such measure is immediately necessary," General Marshall testified. He said it would take too long under the present system of voluntary enlistment to bring the regular army and national guard to the strength for which congress had already provided funds.

"In time of peace there is a very definite limit on how far you can go on the basis of voluntary enlistment, and there probably is also in time of war," the general declared.

A war department official told the senate committee that the army would have 930,000 men in training by Oct. 1 if congress enacted the compulsory training bill.

Cost of Program

Colonel H. L. Twaddle, the department's training expert, testified that this number would increase to 1,415,000 by April of next year. He estimated the cost of the training program at $1,000,000,000 the first year and about $750,000,000 for each succeeding year.

Colonel Twaddle said his figure for the total force which could be under training by Oct. 1 was composed of 300,000 in the regular army, 230,000 in the guard and 400,000 conscripts.

Mobilization of the guard was considered, meanwhile, in a White House conference between President Roosevelt and Secretary of War Stimson.

Colonel Twaddle said all trainees would be assigned "to raise existing army units to full war strength."

"There would be a few extras to fill vacancies," he said.

By next April, Colonel Twaddle said the regular army would be increased to 375,000 men, the national guard to 240,000, and 400,000 new trainees would be brought in above the original 400,000. This would bring total strength to 1,415,000.

Provisions of Bill

Washington (P)—Here are the principal provisions of the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill endorsed in most details today by the army high command:

1. Registration of all male citizens and certain aliens between the ages of 18 and 65 years of age.
2. Liability for military and naval training and service imposed on all registrants between 21 and 45, liability for training and service in home defense units for those younger or older.
3. A training period of eight months for each man selected for service, or for a longer period if the United States is at war or if congress declares the national interest is imperiled.
4. A 10-year term in the enlisted reserve following the training period, with a requirement for annual

Ireland May be Next Goal of German Army

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

Nazi invasion of Ireland—a possibility, especially in view of Eire's rigid neutrality and insistence that England keep hands off—would increase immediately the threat against Britain's food supplies.

It needs only half an eye to see what this might mean when we stop to think that normally she imports more than 80 per cent of her breadstuffs and fruits; 50 per cent of her meat, eggs and dairy products, and a third of her fish and vegetables.

German occupation of continental countries has cut Britain off from some of her chief and nearest markets, notably Holland and Denmark. This has increased greatly the distances over which supplies must be transported by water, in face of the submarine and air menace.

German possession of the entire continental coast-line along the English channel and North Sea already has enabled the Nazis to strike heavily at shipping to Britain's south and east coast ports—including mighty London—upon which the country ordinarily depends for the bulk of its supplies.

Indeed Berlin yesterday claimed that British shipping is being sunk at a rate exceeding World War losses during the unrestricted submarine campaign which almost brought England to her knees. The British have acknowledged shipping losses to 1,000,000 tons. Their total in the last war was about 8,000,000.

So far as ships are concerned, the British could stand it to lose a lot more than they have already. They had some 18,000,000 tons of merchant shipping when the war broke out. They took over many of Norway's 4,800,000 tons when the Nazis invaded that country, some of Holland's 3,000,000 tons, and some of the French. In addition England has bought vessels from neutrals.

Supplies Most Vital

Actually, Britain probably has many more ships than when the war started. However, her trouble is to get them safely home with the bacon. The serious aspect of the situation rests in the loss of supplies more than in the loss of the vessels themselves.

While London has been silent on the matter, it seems obvious that the British must have been forced to divert a great deal of merchant traffic to west coast ports opposite Ireland—principally Liverpool, Cardiff, Bristol and Glasgow. It seems equally obvious that this must have created a congestion on the west coast which would be meat for German bombing planes and submarines if they could get at the ships in those waters handily.

Occupation of Ireland would bring the Germans bang up against this vital shipping, and raise a fresh problem for the British which would be extremely serious. Such an occupation, however, would be very difficult of achievement.

Transportation of troops by water to the rugged west coast of Ireland, through mine fields and against the opposition of the British navy and airforce, would represent a vast undertaking. Landing of parachute troops or transport airplanes would meet a hot reception at the hands of the fighting Irish.

However, the Germans have pulled off some remarkable coups in this war, and the possibility of an attempt to invade the Emerald Isle certainly is strong enough to cause both the Irish and the English much anxiety.

State Employees Get Pay Increases

Madison (P)—The emergency board Thursday granted pay increases totaling $83,000 to approximately 900 state employees.

The board released $45,000 to raise teachers' salaries at the state normal schools, and boosted the industrial commission pay roll by $31,740. Of the latter amount $29,754 will be taken from federal grants.

The balance of the increases will be distributed among 26 employees in the bureau of engineering, 20 in the department of agriculture, 6 in the inspection bureau, 5 in the department of public instruction, and 1 each in the board of health, insurance department, beverage tax division, bureau of purchases, and securities department.

The employment service division of the industrial commission was allotted $38,475; the deep waterways commission, $4,275, and the board of normal school regents, $15,000 for administration.

'Shadow Play' Goes on In Darkened Playhouse

Clinton, Conn. (P)—Nature unexpectedly gave a touch of realism to the musical show "Shadow Play" starring Irene Castle.

A severe thunderstorm last night cut off the power at the Clinton playhouse. The show went on, however, Miss Castle entertaining an audience of 500 while ushers played a battery of flashlights on the stage for two hours.

training of up to one month per year for all reservists.

Peterson Seeks Seat in Senate

Catlin in Campaign To Name Berlin Man On Republican Ticket

Post-Crescent—Madison Bureau
Madison—The field of candidates for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator grew larger today with the announcement by Assemblyman Mark Catlin, Jr., of Appleton that R. W. Peterson of Berlin has become a candidate.

Catlin announced that he is the secretary of a Fox river valley "Peterson for Senator" club which believes that Peterson, former legislator and now chairman of the Wisconsin public service commission, is "best qualified in all respects to be the Republican nominee and next U. S. senator from Wisconsin."

"Both the Republican party and the public generally are demanding that young men of ability with legal training and political experience represent Wisconsin and the Republican party, and Reuben Peterson fills each of these requirements thoroughly," Catlin declared.

Peterson, who resigned from the legislature last year to accept his commission job, said that he will campaign on three major principles. He listed them:

1. A strong national defense, the appropriations for which to be properly administered to eliminate waste and inefficiency.
2. Revision, amendment or change of the reciprocal trade agreements to protect Wisconsin farm and dairy products.
3. Amendment of the national labor relations act to insure fair and impartial administration, protection of the right of collective bargaining, and the elimination of labor racketeering.

Peterson has been district attorney of Green Lake county, and has represented Green Lake and Waushara counties in the legislature for three years. In the 1939 session he was the Republican majority leader. He has also been active in Republican party organizational affairs. A lawyer, he is a graduate of Marquette university law school, class of 1924. He served in the U. S. Navy during the first World War. He is 40, is married, and has three sons.

Michigan Republican Convention Sept. 27

Lansing (P)—The Republican state central committee decided yesterday to hold the party's fall convention in Grand Rapids on Sept. 27. At that time nominees for secretary of state, state treasurer, auditor general and attorney general will be selected.

County Republican organizations will choose their delegates to the state gathering at conventions September 18.

The committee, meeting only to fix the time and date of the conventions, heard Governor Luren D. Dickinson assert that the nomination of Wendell L. Willkie as the Republican candidate for president had inspired Americans as not in recent years.

Declaring he had addressed 50,000 persons during this time, Dickinson said in all his appearances "I have felt it in the air—that they are with us."

Club Formed to Back Heil for Reelection

Milwaukee (P)—A Heil for governor club to promote the candidacy of Julius P. Heil for re-election as the state's chief executive has been organized, with Milwaukee as headquarters. Robert L. Reisinger, construction firm head, is president.

Hortonville Man Fined For Selling Game Fish

Wayne Fouts, Hortonville, pleaded guilty of selling game fish and was fined $10 and costs by Acting Municipal Judge Fred V. Heinemann in municipal court this morning. Conservation Warden Emil Kramer arrested Fouts and charged he sold three catfish, three rock bass and a bullhead.

Says Right Recreation Is Major Youth Need

Urbana, Ill. (P)—What the youth of this country does in its spare moments, says Professor C. Gilbert Wrenn, can do much to determine the strength of Democratic institutions.

The University of Minnesota psychologist, in an address last night before the University of Illinois summer conference on improvement of the school program, described proper recreation as a major youth need.

"Unless the leisure time of youth is wisely and constructively spent, democracy will give way to discontent and internal unrest," he said.

Alexander said that while early season expectations were promising, resort and hotel owners in the vacationland counties lately have been complaining of an unusual number of cancellations of reservations, while inquiries from prospective visitors outside the state in response to his division's advertising appeals have fallen below the number received last year.

Meanwhile a preliminary report from the state-highway commission showed that for the first time this year June gasoline tax collections will be below those for the corresponding month of 1939. Last June the total collected was well over $2,000,000, while the preliminary report for the month just ended shows collections of about $1,900,000, from which refunds are yet to be deducted.

Alexander said that he "would rather wait until October" to make an analysis of Wisconsin vacation business volume in 1940, but he hazarded that the psychological and business uncertainties brought on by the war in Europe may be responsible for any decrease in tourist patronage which may develop.

He added too that competitive vacation areas, and particularly Canada, have heightened their advertising campaigns to attract tourists this year.

FOR SENATE—Reuben Peterson of Berlin, chairman of the Wisconsin Public Service Commission, today said he would be a candidate for Republican nomination for the United States senate.

War Situation Today

Germans Use Big Figures to Describe British Sea Losses

Swift-rising British Spitfires alashed back at German bombers over the island kingdom today, shooting down eight of the raiders in flames, after King George VI narrowly escaped a heavy Nazi attack.

In a Scottish town, one bomb killed 10 persons "as far as known." Many others were wounded. The German invader was shot down and its crew perished as the bullet-sieved plane crashed and burst in flame.

The German high command, in a communique telling of heavy damage inflicted on British air-ports, harbors and armament plants, asserted that 4,329,213 tons of "enemy" merchant shipping or shipping usable by the enemy have been sunk since the war began.

Nazi fighting and Stuka dive-bombing planes sank five ships totaling 30,000 tons in the English channel yesterday, the high command said.

Prime Minister Churchill's government, faced with Nazi threats on a U-boat "starvation blockade" of the British Isles, tightened control to bolster the home front and considered imposing a "scientific diet" on the island kingdom's densely-packed millions to save on food supplies.

While Hitler's quickening campaign of air raids and undersea attacks plagued the British at home, the Italian high command reported fascist air successes in a new attack on the British Mediterranean fleet.

Italian planes again located and bombed the British naval squadron which engaged in the Ionian sea battle earlier this week, the high command said, setting an aircraft carrier afire and seriously damaging two destroyers.

Sparks from the European conflagration spread a widening series of fires in Africa, with British and Italian "flying columns" of mechanized troops raiding each other's outposts in the heat-baked desert regions of Italian Libya, Egypt and British-occupied Kenya colony.

The African kingdom of Emperor Haile Selassie, the fugitive "Lion of Judah" who lost his throne to Italian conquest in 1935-36, also appeared likely to play a forthcoming major role in the struggle.

The British government officially recognized Selassie's government as "the lawful government of Ethiopia" and admitted it "to the full status of ally in the present war, with assurances that Ethiopia's independence will be assured when the war is won."

The emperor's army, unofficially reported to number 200,000 native fighters, will be coordinated with British forces to assail Italy's armies in north and east Africa and in Ethiopia, it was announced in the house of commons.

From Nairobi, Kenya colony, came word that British troops have held out against a fierce 3-day assault by large Italian forces at Moyale, fortified post on the Kenya-Ethiopian frontier.

Striving to shape future hope from the ruin of the Third Republic, France today concentrated in 84-year-old Marshal Petain the power of president and premier.

Balkan disputes over territorial claims quieted after Adolf Hitler's warning that changes might be made later—but would not be tolerated by the axis powers now.

Secretary of State Hull advised non-American powers to keep hands off the July 20 conference of American ministers, and accused Germany of attempts to intimidate Latin American countries. The war department urged compulsory military training.

$1.49 Per Hundred Is Milk Price for June

Chicago (P)—A blended price of $1.49 per hundredweight will be paid producers in the Chicago marketing area for all milk delivered in June.

A. W. Colbank, acting federal market administrator who announced the figure today, said the June blended price for 35 per cent butterfat test milk was the last under the original federal order. The July price will be based on the amended order.

The $1.49 blended price compared with $1.47 for May, $1.60 for April, $1.62 for March and $1.70 for February. Blended prices are based upon prices paid by dealers for milk in various classes of utilization—$1.68 in class one, $1.48 in class two, $1.23 for evaporated and condensed and $1.03 for all other uses in class three.

Producers will receive $3,008,782 for June deliveries, compared with $2,785,171 for May.

Kabat, Asking Pardon, Says He is Repentant

Slayer Tacitly Admits Guilt After Claiming Innocence for Over 30 Years

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—A new chapter in the 34 year old history of the Fox river valley's most famous murder case was unfolded before the state pardon board yesterday as the attorney for Wenzel Kabat, convicted in 1906 for the first degree murder of Michael McCarthy of Kaukauna, told the board that Kabat repents his offense.

For more than three decades Kabat, now the oldest inmate of Wau-pun state prison in point of time served, has steadfastly maintained his innocence of the murder of his employer. Yesterday Attorney Mark Catlin of Appleton offered an indirect admission of guilt when he presented a petition on his client's behalf which declared that "your applicant is sincerely repentant for his offense."

Board Confused

There was some confusion, however, for the board had before it a personal statement from Kabat, included in the voluminous file built up out of the famous criminal court trial in Outagamie county, and three earlier applications for pardon, in which he denied his guilt. "I was convicted on circumstantial evidence and public sentiment," the filed statement said. "If I had any money I never would have been here. Several of the witnesses have repudiated their evidence since. They claimed I killed a man named McCarthy and burned his body in a brush pile."

But Catlin's petition declared that

"your applicant bears no malice or ill will toward anyone, living or dead, that he has accepted his punishment in its spirit and believes, that, in great part, he has paid his debt to society, that better than 30 years at hard work away from the free society of his fellow men has made your applicant sincerely repentant for his offense."

"Which statement shall we believe?" several members of the pardon board, hearing arguments on behalf of Governor Heil who is vested with the power to issue pardons, asked Catlin.

"I wasn't there when he made that other statement. I am telling you here what he told me," the Appleton lawyer replied.

Convicted in 1906

Kabat was convicted, after pleading not guilty, in the Outagamie county circuit court in 1906 after testimony charged that he had forced his farmer-employer, McCarthy, who lived on a farm two miles north of Kaukauna, to deed his property and sign a bill of sale for his personal effects, at the point of a gun. Then, the testimony charged, he killed McCarthy, dismembered his body with saw and axe, and burned the remains in a brushpile. The presiding judge, who sentenced Kabat to life, was the late John Goodland, father of Mayor John Goodland of Appleton and Lt. Governor Walter S. Goodland. The judge, in a statement before he pronounced sentence, characterized Kabat's crime as one of the "most heinous" in criminal annals. He criticized the defendant for his lack of repentance.

Goodland's remarks were recalled in the record of the present pardon application by A. H. Krugmeier of Appleton, district attorney who directed the prosecution 34 years ago, and who strongly opposed the petition for pardon in a letter to the pardon board and the governor.

Krugmeier was assisted in the prosecution by a special assistant selected by Judge Goodland, Thomas H. Ryan of Appleton. The latter is now municipal judge in Appleton, and filed a statement endorsing Krugmeier's opposition to the pardon.

Krugmeier recalled that Kabat had been released from the state reformatory on a forged charge only a few months when he was employed by McCarthy, and "when he conceived and planned the murder. He not only murdered McCarthy, but he buried his body and then forged McCarthy's name to a deed on his farm and a bill of sale of his personal property."

Escaped in 1914

Catlin argued that Kabat's exemplary prison record, despite a three year lapse after an escape in 1914, warranted clemency. He said that his client had trained himself as a tailor while in prison, and that he intended, if released, to go to Minnesota where with the financial assistance of relatives in Green Bay and elsewhere, he intends to set up a business and to become self-supporting.

In 1914 Kabat saved his way through a cell door and escaped over the walls of the prison. In 1917 he was recaptured in Minnesota and returned. He has never applied for a parole, although he has been eligible for many years.

Railroads now own or operate more automobile trucks than locomotives.

Conservation Group Releases 400 Birds Thursday Afternoon

Another 400 pheasants were released in Outagamie county Thursday afternoon, with Black Creek, Seymour and Shiocton receiving 80 birds apiece and the rest going to Outagamie Conservation club for distribution near Appleton and Dale, according to Emil Kramer, county conservation warden. Kramer brought the birds from the Poynette Game farm. Helping Kramer release the pheasants were Phelan Van Ryzin, Henry Van Ryzin, John Branchford, Wilbur Steenis, Clem Kitzinger, Fred Neumann, James Lautenschlager and Herman Price. The birds are only part of those to be released in this vicinity, as the club has 600 birds in pens to be released when they are 10 weeks old, at which time another 600 are received and cared for until the hunting season closes. It is the club's aim to supply all public hunting grounds with game.

Hold Second Health Center at Fremont

The second smallpox vaccination and diphtheria immunization center will be held from 1:30 to 2:30 Tuesday afternoon at Fremont village hall, according to Catherine Chambers, Waupaca county nurse. The second dose of diphtheria toxoid will be given then, to children who were given the first dose June 11. Smallpox vaccinations will be examined, with those that did not take repeated. Parents unable to bring their children to the first center may have them vaccinated against smallpox and given the first diphtheria dose.

New Pleasure Boats Appear on Fox River

An unusual number of new pleasure craft have passed through Appleton locks this summer, according to locktenders here. Such traffic, almost at a standstill during the recent high water, began again this week.

Tax revenues from operation of motor vehicles today exceed the total of federal, state and local taxes in 1896 when the automobile was a sideshow curiosity.

June Pension Costs Increase

Month's Outlay Is $30,243, $243 More Than Previous Month

Outagamie county pensions costs, totaling $30,243.60, increased last month $243.40 over May, according to a report of T. S. Davis, county pension director. Aid for dependent children showed a decrease, but the outlays for the old age and blind were higher.

Eighteen old age cases were added and 12 dropped during the month, leaving a total of 894 on July 1. The expenditure for the month was $18,473.25, an increase of $219.05 over May. A decrease of $7 was noted in the June outlay of $10,481.35 for dependent children. Three cases were added and four dropped, leaving 332 active cases on July 1. Blind pension payments in June amounted to $1,289, an increase of $31.33. Two cases were added during the month, bringing the total of 58.

Approximately 1,000,000 persons derive a livelihood from the 161 U. S. national forests in 40 states, Alaska and Puerto Rico.

Track Crew Soon to Lay New Rails From Neenah to Appleton

A crew of 93 men is expected in Appleton today or Saturday to begin the laying of approximately 6 miles of track between here and Neenah, according to F. A. Semmelhack, Chicago and North Western railway agent.

It will take from 10 to 14 days to replace the present rails, using modern tracklaying machinery, Semmelhack said. New 112-pound rails will replace the 100-pound ones. The crew which is to be transferred here will come from a job near Manitowish.

$12,000 Grant to Restore Grignon Home Approved

Congressman Sends Word of Presidential Action to Committee

Kaukauna — Renovation of the historic Grignon home here soon will be under way as President Roosevelt has approved an allocation of $12,000 for a WPA project to restore the famed homestead.

Announcement was made in a telegram from Congressman Joshua L. Johns to L. F. Nelson, chairman of the committee for restoration of the Grignon home.

The homestead was purchased a year ago by Outagamie county and made into a county park.

In his telegram the congressman asked Mr. Nelson to relay the message to Mayor John Goodland, Jr., at Appleton. Joseph C. McCarty, president of the Outagamie Pioneer and Historical society, and State Senator Mike Mack of Shiocton.

The president's approval of the Grignon home restoration fulfills a dream of the county historical society which has hoped to make the home one of the state's best historical sites.

Working with Mr. Nelson on the home restoration is a committee composed of W. E. Smith, Sartio Balliet, George Hannagan, and Richard Meyer. This committee was appointed by the Outagamie county Pioneer and Historical society and has been working to secure this WPA grant.

This committee will superintend the restoration and work will begin as soon as a formal notification of the grant is received.

Man Badly Bruised in Fall Through Stairway

Kaukauna — Fay G. Posson, 993 Grignon street, metman for the Kaukauna electrical and water departments, was bruised about the body yesterday when he fell through a stairway at a Fourth street house.

Posson was walking up the stairs to check the lighting after installing a meter when one of the steps gave way, Posson falling through the opening up to his shoulders. He was taken to a doctor for treatment by Edwin Ives who was working with him on the job. He will be confined to his home for several days.

Pig Fair

Kaukauna — The monthly pig fair sponsored by the Tri-County Pig Fair association will be held at the Dodge Street fairgrounds tomorrow. Dodge street will be closed to through traffic during the fair.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

90-Year-Old Dress Added to Display at Kaukauna Museum

Kaukauna — A 90-year-old dress which was at one time part of the trousseau of the late Mrs. John Aird has been added to the growing collection of articles of historical interest being exhibited at the sesquicentennial museum in the Municipal building.

Mrs. Aird, who was Mary Hood before her marriage in Scotland in 1852, is the grandmother of two Kaukauna women. Mrs. James Ager, 514 Green street, and Mrs. James E. McFadden, 322 Doty street.

The dress was donated by Mrs. Ager in whose possession it has been for the last 21 years. The Airds moved to this country from Scotland shortly after their marriage, settling in the town of Vandenberg.

A collection of old fire arms has been donated by Peter Renn. In this collection are a single barrel and a double barrel muzzle loading shotgun, together with a powder horn and several caps used to fire the gun.

Mr. Renn also donated an oxen yoke which brought back memories to the pioneers of the days when oxen were used to clear the way through the forests.

Yarn Wreath
A colored wreath made from combed saxon yarn and modeled to represent flowers was presented to the museum by Mrs. William Klumb, Jr., 114 W. Fifth street.

The wreath was made by a 75 year old woman and presented to Mr. and Mrs. John Pien in 1885. The wreath is enclosed in a glass frame to be hung on parlor walls.

Another item of curious interest at the museum is an old fashioned quill pen set made in white china, which was donated to the sesquicentennial committee by Kenneth Heindel. He also presented a bonnet made of black yarn which is over a hundred years old and a silver snuff box.

M. T. Welch of this city has donated several old wooden pipes and two old style clocks for display. Other items secured by the museum recently are a natural grown wooden mug donated by Mrs. Louis J. Faust, 225 Margaret street, two majolica pitchers from Nora L. Nitz, and some old style glassware from Mrs. William Greene.

Softball League Adopts New Rule

Kaukauna — Base runners in the city softball league may leave their base when the ball leaves the pitcher's hands; it was decided last night at a meeting of the team managers in the city council room in the municipal building.

The old rule used for the first half of the season was that the ball must have passed the plate before the runner could leave his base.

The managers voted to retain the present rule which provides that a ball hit into the trees in the right field of the library diamond is good for two bases. A suggestion to put the ball in play when it hit the trees was rejected by the group.

Team managers will be allowed to add and fire players at will during the first week of the second half as long as they keep within the maximum of 18 players. After Friday, July 19, a week's notice must be given before a player can be fired or quit the team, it was announced.

Hartman Contact Man With Plane Concerns

Waupaca — Edwin Hartman, graduate of Waupaca High school with the class of 1922, has recently been assigned by the government as contact man with all airplane companies on the west coast. Hartman, who is stationed at Moffat field, Calif., visits all plane plants on the coast, supervises specifications, production and manufacturing processes.

In the early Indian wars, more white women and children were carried away captive, probably, than were killed.

Nolan Will Tell Moose About Plans for Kaukauna Pageant

Kaukauna — Thomas Nolan of the sesquicentennial committee will be the speaker at the regular meeting of the Loyal Order of Moose Monday evening. He will speak on the historical pageant, Kaukauna Kavalade, to be presented here August 14 to 18.

The Kamera Klub will hold its first outing of the year Sunday at High Cliff where Nick Bruell, the farmer-photographer of Sherwood will point out interesting features of the cliff and talk on daylight portraiture. The group will leave from the Pachman studio at 1:30 and will bring cameras and lunches. A short business meeting will be held at the picnic, it was announced.

Alvin Kronforst has been named general chairman of the committee planning the golden anniversary celebration of the St. Mary's court 118, Catholic Order of Foresters, August 25.

Kronforst will be assisted by N. M. Haupt, Phillip Hartzheim, John Van de Loo, L. F. Nelson, William Steidl, Joseph A. Schmidt, Peter Kauth, and C. P. Goetzman.

Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, Court No. 556, held a picnic Wednesday afternoon at LaFollette park. Bingo and cards were played with prizes awarded to Mrs. George Greenwood, Mrs. Ernest Landreman, and Mrs. Frank Walsh.

Last night the Goldin Metals defeated the Hakbarth Owls, 16 to 13, even though the losing team got 18 hits to the Metals' 13. Calvin Spice of the Goldin Metals knocked out a homer in the second inning scoring one man ahead of him and Philan Femal of the same team hit a four-bagger in the following inning with three men on base.

Leading hitters of last night's game were Meinert and Bisek of the Hakbarth Owls and Peters, Goldin, and Mary Miller of the Goldin Metals, each of whom got three hits.

First 6 Months Sees Car Loading Increase

Freight car loadings, though off in July, have made a better record the first six months of 1940 than for other comparable periods, Milwaukee Road officials said yesterday.

A crew of 15 was in the vicinity of Appleton this week tightening rails. O. W. Mallon, traveling freight agent of the Superior division, was a business caller at the local office this week.

Roosevelt Message Designed To Quash 'Warmonger' Cries

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington — In his new defense message asking for $5,000,000,000 or more, President Roosevelt seized the opportunity to restate his attitude toward war. He did this in a way that evidently was intended to cut the ground from under those who call him an "interventionist" and a "warmonger."

Clapper

Briefly, the Roosevelt policy as stated in this latest message is this:

"We will not send our men to take part in European war."

"We will repel aggression against the United States or the western hemisphere."

PS—Not a word was said about "aid to the allies" or "steps short of war" or assistance to nations resisting aggression.

That omission is perhaps the most significant fact about the message. Only part of the message was concerned with details of the defense program. Much of the wordage was given over to setting the Roosevelt record straight. Mr. Roosevelt paraphrased several of his earlier messages to remind congress that he has repeatedly warned of threatening danger and repeatedly asked for more defense.

Because he reviewed these earlier messages at such length, the omission regarding actions to discourage aggressors abroad becomes noticeable. For instance Mr. Roosevelt recalled what he had told congress in his message of Jan. 4, 1939, about the new threats of military aggression. But he omitted to recall the point he had made in that message that "there are many methods short of war but stronger and more effective than mere words" that might be used against aggressors.

It was out of that famous passage, completely ignored in the new message, that the case was built for changing the neutrality act to permit shipment of arms to the allies.

Out of that passage grew the whole structure of debate over aid to the allies. Mr. Roosevelt reminded congress how he had correctly foreseen the present dangers, but by reading this message and forgetting what has gone before, one would never suspect that he had tried to do anything about it except to arm the United States to the teeth.

Change in Situation May Explain New Emphasis

Two circumstances may explain this change of emphasis.

One is that the aggressors have won the war, except for England, and that it is too late to do much more for her.

The other circumstance is that the presidential campaign may be having its effect. Republicans are trying to hang an interventionist, warmongering tag on the administration. Senate debate over the confirmations of Henry Stimson as

Blackbird, Stealing Cherries, Is Caught In Wind-Built Snare

Kaukauna — City people all know that they are lucky if they can outwit the robins and blackbirds enough to get at least some of the cherries from their trees, but few ever catch a culprit.

Mrs. John Hollihan, Depot street, did, but then she let the offending blackbird go.

It seems that this mid-afternoon thief became so interested in the cherries he was eating off the Hollihan tree yesterday that he forgot himself and became entangled in a snare built by the wind, a lost piece of string blown into the top branches of the tree. After his lunch he decided to leave but couldn't.

Neighborhood children saw the frantic blackbird. A group of folks gathered, and when children bent the top branch down with a pole, Mrs. Hollihan liberated Mr. Bird.

'All Parish Day' to be Held at Camp Cleghorn

Waupaca — The First Methodist church is planning an "all parish day" Sunday.

The congregation and friends will spend the day at Camp Cleghorn where services will be held at 10:30 in the auditorium. Special music is being planned, with the children's choir recently organized by Miss Kathleen Cristy, to furnish two of the numbers.

Each person has been asked to bring a dish to pass, in addition to his own sandwiches. Ice cream, coffee and lemonade will be furnished by the Ladies Aid society.

At 4 o'clock a vesper service will be held and at 5 o'clock a chartered boat will take all of those who wish on a trip around the lakes.

The committee in charge includes Mrs. Charles McLean, Mrs. Charles Button, Miss Helen Sill and Charles Stinemates, R. J. Deuel and Ralph Pound.

Roosevelt, Willkie Run Close in Early Survey

President Polls Slight Majority, but Convention May Help Democratic Cause

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J.—Evidence that the Democrats will have a real fight on their hands in attempting to beat Wendell Willkie for the Presidency is revealed in a nation-wide survey by the Institute. While it is only the state-by-state polls conducted after the Democrats have named their candidates for president and vice-president next week that will have any significance, nevertheless today's results give some indication of the Willkie strength.

They show Willkie running a close race with Franklin D. Roosevelt in popular strength throughout the nation, and running virtually even with him in the sections of the country which control the greatest number of electoral votes.

These results constitute, of course, no forecasts of how the race would start, because it is the state-by-state line-up of electoral votes rather than the popular vote which puts a man in office. Such state-by-state checks for president and vice president are named.

In today's study a cross-section of voters in all parties throughout the country were asked:

"If President Roosevelt runs for a third term on the Democratic ticket against Wendell Willkie on the Republican ticket, how would you vote?"

Those expressing a choice voted as follows:

Roosevelt 55% Willkie 47

One voter in every ten (10 per cent) expressed no opinion. It should be remembered in studying these figures that the Republicans have already held their convention with its publicity and excitement, while the Democrats have not yet had their inning. In 1936, Institute surveys found a 4-point rise in Republican strength after the G.O.P. convention.

In spite of all these factors, however, it is interesting to note that the number of voters favoring Roosevelt today is considerably smaller than the number who wanted the Democrats to win the election in a survey taken less than a month ago.

At that time, prior to the nomination of Willkie by the Republicans, 58 per cent of all voters polled said they favored a Democratic victory this year. At the same time, 37 per

Program for Defense Still To be Started

Only Authorizations Have Been Made Thus Far, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Sixty-three days have elapsed since the nazis began their total war by invading Belgium and Holland, and in that period the American people have been awakened to the need for an immense national defense program, but there have developed delays which are of such far-reaching importance that it becomes a public duty to call attention to them.

Lawrence

During the 63 days, scarcely a week has gone by that the administration has not made spectacular and dramatic announcements about the billions that are to be "authorized" for defense weapons, but the simple truth is that 63 days have passed without getting America into the swing of production so vital to present day conditions. "Authorizations" do not mean production.

In normal times a loss of 63 days is not important, but in less than that number of days Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium and France have been conquered and the whole course of contemporaneous history has been changed. Can America afford to lose the time that has been spent thus far in Washington bickering and debating details, discussing compromises, arguing for this or that policy of New Dealism and generally introducing a web of red tape, the like of which has been witnessed only in the democracies of France and Britain when they began wrestling with the same defense problem as it related to industrial production?

Bogging Down
Hasn't Washington learned the lesson which has been so painfully administered in Europe? One would think so, but the truth is Washington's defense program has been bogging down for several weeks. Little has been said in the press in the hope that some coordination and speed would come soon. The whole picture has been befogged by the shrewd move of the administration in bringing prominent industrialists to Washington so as to give the public confidence in the readiness of the government to give business men a chance to function.

Now these business men will say right off the bat that they are getting excellent cooperation from the president, and it's true. The trouble is not in getting done the "things" which the advisory commission on national defense wants done. The difficulty is in finding out what the army and navy respectively really want and when they want it, and then finding out what industry and business can do to put the weapons into the hands of the army and navy at the earliest possible moment.

It is government red tape which is slowing down the defense machine, and by government red tape is meant the whole series of restrictive laws affecting the flow of capital in America. One hardly realizes the extent to which the economic machine has been slowed down by the need for permission to do this or that. Business and industry find themselves unable to get contracts allotted on a basis that will warrant the risks involved. For several weeks now, for instance, there has been discussion on the all-important subject of depreciation of plant. Until it is determined the investors cannot risk the money needed on such businesses because war plants may be rendered useless in a short time.

Long Discussion
Instead of jumping into this question and clearing the air at once of all the restrictions which have been besetting business men, the administration's departments and bureaus entered into a long discussion which is only now being ended. If it takes the government of the United States 63 days to settle a problem like that it will be decades before the American defense machine will be ready.

While there is no need for panic in order to get a national defense program going at full speed, it is a fact that the people of the United States have been led to expect that a year hence America would be engaged in mass production of various weapons. Judging by the speed exhibited thus far it will take a year and a half to do what ought to be done in a year.

On the question of airplane production more progress is being made perhaps than in the other fields of preparedness. But in respect to airplanes, the expectations of the president that we would have a 50,000 airplane capacity in the next couple years will hardly be fulfilled. Experts estimate that America will be lucky to be building airplanes at the rate of 20,000 a year by September 1941. Meanwhile the nazis are going at top speed, and America has not

Today and Tomorrow

France and America at Martinique

The situation in the West Indies, at the French colony of Martinique is delicate and serious. For while Martinique is a small island, the importance of which must not be exaggerated, what is done at Martinique may establish precedents and set in motion a train of events involving this country, the Latin-American republics, France, Great Britain, and Germany. There is the immediate question of what is to be done about the French airplane carrier which is now in the harbor of Fort de France with a cargo of airplanes made in the United States. There is the greater question of what is to be American policy towards the colonial possessions of France in this hemisphere.

We shall do well, I believe, to seek to avoid precipitating an issue over the warships and planes until we have clarified and defined our attitude towards the island colony itself. We should so advise the British government and the French government; and we should request that they co-operate with us, even if they cannot co-operate with one another, in stabilizing the position about the warships while we promulgate the policy we shall pursue about the colony itself. It ought not to be difficult to formulate a simple made use of the last 63 days to make the decisions that would put the airplane program up to a higher capacity than 20,000 in 18 months.

There is considerable delay, too, in agreeing on plans for tank construction. Manufacturers who are fully capable of getting to work at once are asked to make plans and specifications and about the time they complete such plans word comes that something else is wanted. France owes her defeat today to the fact that her experts couldn't make up their minds. That's one of the reasons for the present situation and unless it is soon cured by the appointment of a new coordinator in chief with full authority over the army and navy, the American people will have to make up their minds that effective defense will be achieved only when the political campaign is out of the way and there is a change of administrations.

ple and workable policy for the United States in the next few days and to explain it at the Pan-American conference in Havana next week.

General Principles

What's at Stake

The problem will be difficult only if we make the mistake of announcing great general principles, like those in Mr. Early's unfortunate interview over the week end. General principles are out of order for the obvious reason that the war is far from being over and that no final settlement of any territorial question is remotely in sight. All that is required, therefore, is an interim working arrangement about the island itself. With such an arrangement the problem of the warships ought to be easier to deal with.

In order not to stumble over our own principles, we must begin, it seems to me, by recognizing clearly that the Monroe Doctrine is not now relevant to the situation in Martinique. The colony belongs to France. According to the Monroe Doctrine this colony may not be ceded to any other non-American state. But there is nothing in the doctrine which asserts any special right in Martinique on the part of the United States or of any American republic. Under the doctrine the colony may remain French. It may become an independent American republic protected under the Monroe Doctrine against reconquest from abroad. Or the colony may be ceded by France to an American state. These are the three alternatives recognized by the Monroe Doctrine, and it is apparent at once that none of them can now be adopted.

It follows that in the interim, which may last for many years, our policy will have to be based not on the Monroe Doctrine as a clear rule of United States policy but on its intent and its spirit as applied to the existing situation.

Question is Whether Government is Independent

The real question, obviously, is whether the French government at Vichy which controls Martinique and can appoint and direct the administration of Martinique is in fact an independent French government.

within the intent and spirit of the Monroe Doctrine.

This is a question which, regardless of private opinion in this country, the United States government cannot and should not pre-judge. It is plainly a question where the proper official attitude is to wait in order to see what actually happens in Martinique rather than to draw conclusions from what appears to be happening in Vichy at this moment.

We should, therefore, send competent diplomatic observers to the colony instructed to report on whether there are any changes in the administration, in its personnel, procedure, and policies, which indicate that the colony is no longer governed as it has been in the past. Among the decisive indications to be watched would be any which pointed to the use of the colony as a base of operations against Great Britain, or as a base for totalitarian propaganda and penetration in this hemisphere. The first clear sign of any of these things would justify the United States government in concluding that Martinique had in fact been lost to France, that the substance of the Monroe Doctrine had been violated, and that American control of the island was required immediately. But unless there is an overt act of some sort in Martinique, it would be neither honorable nor wise to jump to conclusions about Martinique because of the political convulsion through which the French nation is passing.

Serve to Purpose To Treat France Badly

It would not be honorable because the French nation have been and are our ancient friends. With good friends one persists in affection and in understanding even when one does not like or understand what they are doing. In this hemisphere the French are our good neighbors, and more than good neighbors, they are of all the peoples of the world the ones who understand best both our Latin neighborhood and ourselves. But above all, in the misfortune of France it should be our fierce pride to be the last to forget the greatness of

Orders Placed for 25,000 Airplanes For Army and Navy

Washington — The national advisory defense commission announced Thursday that it had placed orders totaling $100,000,000 with airplane manufacturing companies for 25,000 airplanes for the army and navy.

Dr. George J. Mead, aeronautical adviser to the commission, declared at a press conference that since July 1, the army and navy had been working closely with industrial representatives and that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had joined in the aircraft development program by agreeing to lend funds to industrial companies to finance necessary expansion of plant facilities.

In addition, he said, the national advisory committee for aeronautics

The army and navy have pooled their technical work and agreed on joint standards for engines, propellers, designs and other details in order to facilitate the program.

Governor Heil and Wisconsin Amusements

Recently the Post-Crescent published an article to indicate how completely public opinion is baffled in this democracy of ours unless it concerns itself with some fighting controversy which arouses people's blood, and sometimes spills it.

Public opinion in this country is overwhelmingly in favor of eliminating the constitutional right of an accused person to remain silent and still obtain all the presumptions of the law in his favor; it is just as much in favor of preparedness, of training officers at universities, and long before this present war cloud took shape on the horizon. But there is no advantage of those in power in merely cleaning house upon matters of this kind.

Something of the same condition exists concerning amusements.

Governor Heil is drumming loudly for tourist business for Wisconsin. His help is proper and should shape itself constructively. We continue to tell the hundreds of thousands who come into Wisconsin for their holiday that we are still cramped with a blue law as bad as any that sent a man to jail in Puritan days for chopping a stick of wood on Sunday. It is still a crime in Wisconsin to bet a nickel on whether Galento stands up or the Blue-boys win out.

Public opinion does not look upon amusement betting as gambling. Public opinion has been tested at the polls by direct referendum in a number of states and has declared itself in favor of the permission and regulation of amusement betting.

But Governor Heil would look upon this as political dynamite. He probably is afraid of the so-called Church Crowd. He doesn't realize that that group no longer holds extensive power in respect to narrow policies but has broadened its view as it has learned that innocence cannot be made damnable by a law hoary with age.

Even were these amusements to be permitted during the summer months alone it would mark a decided improvement. May the tens of thousands from heat-infested areas who are kept indoors on a rainy day at a Wisconsin resort have a game of bingo? Will the House dare to distribute the cards?

Herbert Hoover followed the cramped and bigoted advice of Bishop Cannon and the zealots. Mr. Heil should understand the basis for comparison.

The Mysterious Is Always Terrible

As part of the war the Germans have from its start built great stories out of little inventions or ordinary events.

Their magnetic mine was something new but the English fathomed it immediately and then avoided it efficiently. Their next scare had to do with the nerve gas or a new explosive or whatever it was that added in the capture of one of the great Liege forts.

An intelligent people will investigate any such claimed invention with the utmost of care but they will not overlook the fact that the nerve gas or the new and deadly explosive may have been a good-sized hunk of gold or some other means of corrupting some of the defenders in key positions.

General Miles of the American Army, who inspected French and Belgian defenses and fortifications just a few weeks before the German attack, declared that in some points the Germans actually attacked the strongest and most difficult positions and that details of soldiers assigned by the defense with emphatic orders to pull switches that would blow bridges to pieces upon sight of the first approaching German soldier probably were wiped out "by fellows dressed as peasants and smoking pipes." Anyway the switches were not pulled, the tanks crossed the bridges and great advantages were secured through ruses.

Treachery is always a part of war but Germany has improved upon it more than she has upon any gas or explosive.

Surprise and fear, mysterious fear, is a good asset in beating an enemy. And its use is perfectly proper by Germany if the ones against whom it is used are credulous enough to swallow everything in sight.

Why Fear the Facts?

The administration is getting extremely touchy and just as choosy.

It would not give out publicly the letter of resignation of Secretary of War Woodring. It said the letter was "too personal". That is a very broad description. It might involve an incorrect interpretation.

One rather feels that what was said about war-mongering at Washington in the Woodring letter wasn't pleasant to the administration's ears.

Then Secretary Hull declined to give out the complete German note on the Monroe Doctrine. The public received only the worthy secretary's abridgement. This is a strange procedure indeed. Cannot we be permitted to read the document, quote from it and make or submit our own conclusions?

If the administration cannot "take it" in these two respects we rather think the people can.

American Military Training

In General Pershing's statement in support of general military training he wrote the following of its effect:

"In its effect upon the individual there is no doubt but that universal military training would be productive of great benefit to the youth of the nation, both as citizens and as prospective soldiers. Such training would develop respect for constituted authority; it would impress the individual with his obligation to and pride in his country, in contrast to the present tendency to emphasize the responsibility of the nation to the individual. It would improve the physical development of our young men, as well as promote their general health."

The remnants of the four million who served in World War No. 1, the veterans of the Spanish American war, the several hundred thousand of our citizens who have served in the regular army and then gone into other ventures, know how true the Pershing statement is. Moreover, we think, the people generally, men and women alike, realize that hardly anything better could happen for a young man than a year or two of military training.

There is no cleaner life on the face of the earth. There is no wiser instruction given anywhere. There is no greater effort in America to teach men to be practical, self-supporting, self-dependent, just and fair with their fellows:

Courtesy, honesty, justice, courage—these are the aims and the attributes of American military service.

Long experience has taught the military command just what should be demanded of men, even to the number of minutes' rest they should receive for the number of minutes on march, the best shape for their shoes, the maximum weight for their backs, the most useful clothing for all climates and the medical precautions that should be taken periodically to secure their health and development.

The American army was never a menace to anything American. An army conducted after the system that has prevailed in this country for 150 years would only serve to make democracy bloom to its fullest.

The training camps for officers now filled with young business and professional men find the Rockefeller peeling potatoes and their personal friends swinging picks into the clay. Out of the experience of marching shoulder to shoulder, making camp, sleeping on Mother Earth, a comradeship develops that is one of the most valuable ingredients to preserve democracy against bickering and backbiting, against selfishness and class struggle. Of General Sherman it was said 20 years after the Civil war was concluded that he kept himself poor because he never could refuse to assist any men who wore the uniform in his army and whom he thought was in need.

And yet with this undeniable situation, with a powerful public opinion always in favor of military training, we get exactly nothing from our rulers until they get a nightmare that danger lies upon the tides just off the three-mile limit.

Solidarity

Mr. Roosevelt says he appointed two leading Republicans to his cabinet in the interests of national solidarity.

He is too competent in political ways not to realize that the gesture may be graceful but inconclusive.

If he wants real solidarity in this country he might ask his thumb controlled convention at Chicago to nominate Mr. Willkie for president.

Then we would have a unity not otherwise obtainable.

SECURITY

In my backyard a redbird sings,
The sun upon his velvet wings.

The rain poured yesterday, but he
Today has a glad song for me.

He does not know what dreadful storm
Tomorrow holds for his alarm.

His only safety is the strength
To bear what comes in the day's length.

And that is my security—
To face whatever comes to me.

And mine with grace, and do my part
With steady nerves and gallant heart.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY ROUND

BY DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington—Jim Farley scrupulously stuck to his resolve not to talk to the press after his talk with the president at Hyde Park. But the morning after this conference, Chip Robert, secretary of the Democratic National committee, held a significant luncheon with the group of Democratic senators arranging the Chicago convention.

This group includes Senators Wagner of New York, Jimmy Byrnes of South Carolina, Pat Harrison of Mississippi, Happy Chandler of Kentucky and several others. To them, Mr. Robert, who is second in command to Farley on the Democratic National committee, passed the word along that Roosevelt would run for a third term.

He also passed on the message that Farley was definitely out, and that the chief difference between him and the president had not been the third term, but the question of who should be the vice presidential candidate.

The New Dealers, Robert reported, were strong for Justice William O. Douglas, but Farley was just as emphatically opposed to him. Jim did not believe that the ticket could win with an out-and-out New Dealer running as second man to Roosevelt.

Farley wanted Hull for vice president, and Roosevelt heartily concurred in the choice. However, Secretary Hull previously had said he was not available as a vice presidential candidate, though Jim was convinced that all Roosevelt had to do was to urge Hull and he would consent.

Chip Robert also passed on the word that Jim Farley had told Roosevelt he was resigning come what may, in order to accept some business opportunities he could not afford to miss. Farley has gone into debt, and is counting on another job, in addition to bossing the New York Yankees, to recoup his finances.

Roosevelt urged him to stay, but Farley was adamant. The conversation lasted for two solid hours, and never were the two men in more friendly mood. They were extremely frank, but parted on the best of terms, probably feeling more kindly toward each other than at any time in two years.

Chip Robert departed that same afternoon to complete arrangements at Chicago.

It becomes increasingly evident that the main fight at Chicago is going to be over the vice presidential nominee on the Roosevelt ticket.

Despite Secretary Hull's reluctance to serve, many think that in the end, he may be the man. Justice Douglas they consider admirably qualified, but not acceptable politically to the conservative wing of the party.

However, a compromise vice presidential candidate between Hull and Douglas has been looming in the background. He is Lloyd Stark, hard-hitting governor of Missouri. Stark has been rolling up more and more support in the far west recently, where several governors are reported backing him.

Stark's strength is chiefly in agricultural areas, he being a nurseryman. Also his long career in the army during the World war and in the navy after his graduation from Annapolis fits into the national defense picture.

Stark's chief handicap is that he does not control the delegation from his own state of Missouri, and usually it is hard to nominate a man who does not have the home politicians behind him. That is, it was considered hard until Wendell Willkie won at Philadelphia with the New York delegation pledged to Dewey.

NO-WAR PLANK

For the Democratic platform makers, like the Republicans, the biggest headache is the foreign affairs plank.

The same bellicose forces, isolationist and anti, which made life miserable for the Philadelphia platform writers are giving the deep blues to the Democrats. In fact, the rival camps among the Democrats are even more troublesome.

The Republicans, while they squabbled hotly among themselves behind closed doors, were too conscious of party-interest to kick up an open row. On the final showdown, the boys worked out a compromise that gave each side a sob. The result was rather ambiguous, but it left the door open for the Republican candidate to move whichever way he wanted.

But the prima donna Democratic factions are insisting on the whole hog or nothing. Senator Burt Wheeler, backed by the glowering John L. Lewis, is demanding an unequivocal, isolationist, no-war declaration; and threatens to head a third-party ticket if he doesn't get his way.

Anti-isolationists, foremost among them Roosevelt himself, are flatly against such a plank. At the same time, they are acutely aware of the powerful "peace" sentiment in the country and they know they've got to watch their step.

How to meet this problem, without too-obvious pussyfooting, is the big riddle. A number of formulas are under consideration. The one so far most favored reads:

"We are opposed to any American youth being sent to fight in foreign wars. We dedicate ourselves to unstinting effort to build up the defenses of our own country to protect it and the Western hemisphere from any foreign encroachments."

G-boss J. Edgar Hoover and dynamic Walter Winchell were discussing the fifth column menace and the government's measures to combat it.

"Believe me, Walter," remarked Hoover, "I've got a personal interest in suppressing subversive elements. If they ever got control, I'd be the first one they'd shoot."

"John," shot back Winchell with a broad grin, "you've got delusions of grandeur. I'm No. 1 on their list."

POLITICAL CHAFF

GOP master minds are losing no time organizing their campaign. Quietly, they already have begun buying up billboard space all over the country.

In anticipation of being barred from the ballot this year, California Communists are quietly making plans to capture the Progressive party in the forthcoming primary.

One Democratic leader to keep an eye on at Chicago is tall, fast-thinking Senator Lister Hill of Alabama. As chairman of the Alabama delegation, he will be the first to answer the roll call when the nominating speeches begin. Hill, who succeeded to the seat once held by his close friend Justice Hugo Black, is a strong third term and a Roosevelt favorite.

Fritz Thyssen. This German steelmaster was so fearful of communism, so afraid of losing his own vast possessions, that he became the chief financial backer of the Nazi party. When Hitler's movement was on the rocks in 1932 for lack of money, Thyssen came to the rescue by building up a fighting fund of 45,000,000 marks for the Nazis, whom he regarded as a bulwark against bolshevism. The Nazis promptly climbed to power by standing on his shoulders. Today Thyssen is exiled, his property has been confiscated as "communist," and he is a hurt and angry man.

Life magazine has done a service to business men everywhere by publishing Thyssen's recent correspondence with his former Nazi friends, explaining how the break with them occurred.—New York Times.

A Bystander In Washington

BY JACK STINNETT

Washington—"Nothing ever happened like that before!" newsmen said of the nomination of Wendell L. Willkie.

But the remark brought a sort of disgust from one of our capital cabbies who has seen a convention or two himself. He saw McKinley nominated in 1900, and his grandpappy, who took him, filled him with stories of the 1860 convention where "Old Abe" Lincoln was nominated in so much the same fashion as Wendell L. Willkie that it isn't even funny.

Similar Situations
When the 1860 convention delegates assembled, a New York favorite son, William H. Stewart, was so far ahead of the field that there was hardly any competition. Straw votes had given him a tremendous lead.

But when the delegates assembled, things began to happen. "Old Abe" the railsplitter had nothing but Illinois on his side to start with, but before things could really warm up, Pennsylvania, whose candidate was favorite son Simon Cameron, and Indiana had been brought into line.

The night before the balloting, the Lincoln crowd gave their first hint of a blitzkrieg. One of their henchmen took the floor and made a speech that lasted until after midnight, eliminating the possibility of the Seward speeches that were scheduled.

That same night, Ward Hill Lamon went to the printers of convention hall tickets and all night long a corps of young men wrote the names of Lincoln backs on the tickets.

The next day, rooters stomped the streets and shouted for "Old Abe" and "The Rail Splitter." The Lincolns took over the Wigwam, the huge old rough lumber barn where the convention was to be held, and when the Seward shoulers arrived there were no seats.

Help From Galleries
As the voting started, Lincoln had barely a hundred votes but every one that was cast for him brought such a din from the galleries that "a thousand steam whistles, ten acres of hotel gongs, a tribe of Comanches might have mingled in the scene unnoticed."

On the third ballot, Lincoln had gone from nothing to a near majority. What he needed, the Ohio delegation provided, and the nomination was won.

So short a time had he been in the race, so little was he known as a possibility, that when Seward's son, working for a newspaper in Albany, shouted up a tube to the printing room foreman that Lincoln had won the nomination, the foreman shouted back: "Say, what damn name was that you said was nominated for President?"

When it was all over Lincoln (and Willkie) pointed out that a dark horse has the advantage of having made no commitments and not owing anybody anything. Of course, that wasn't exactly true for Lincoln, and it probably won't be for Wendell L. Willkie either.

If he's elected, Politics aren't run like that . . . ever.

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Friday, July 11, 1930

With dozens of Wisconsin boys and others in middle western cities perched in trees that day to break the "endurance sitting" record of a Racine, Wis., youth, parents, police and public health authorities sought ways and means of stopping the "flights" while merchants and relatives encouraged them. Jimmie Clemons started it in Racine when he sat in a tree for 36 hours and the sitting had taken almost epidemic form in various Wisconsin cities.

A $3,000 addition was being constructed on the St. Therese convent. The lower floor was to be used to accommodate the overflow from St. Therese school.

25 YEARS AGO

Friday, July 16, 1915

After Aug. 1, the grocery store on College avenue managed by Carl Gerlach was to move to new quarters. Mr. Gerlach having arranged to move to the Hecht building on Appleton street in quarters formerly used by Bohl and Maeser's shoe store.

Indications were that the employers of Appleton and the nation were showing more of an interest in the military affairs of the country than ever before. There was a possibility that there had been a general awakening to the unpreparedness of the country for there had been little difficulty in letting men off to go to training camps that summer.

CCC Pruning Means Lumber Free of Knots

Wenatchee, Wash. —(AP)—A shave and a haircut for some of the yellow pine in the Wenatchee National forest costs about 14¢ cents.

CCC crews work there pruning lower branches off the trees, up to a height of 18 feet. Trees picked are the smaller ones, with a diameter of from six to eight inches and a height of 30 to 35 feet.

The timber trimmed in this manner eventually makes lumber free of knots, Forest Supervisor Walter H. Lund explained. On each of 580 acres near Lake Wenatchee some 40 trees were picked out for such special pruning and for six feet around each tree brush was also cut away.

The CCC workers average about half an acre a man a day.

Awaiting His Master

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WINGAARD

Madison—Republican administration stump speakers as the summer wears on aren't going to be bashful about pointing with pride at what they consider their praiseworthy deeds. One of the most potent arguments available to them, if they are discerning enough to recognize it, is the record made by Attorney General John E.

Wingard in the financial management of his department.

The attorney general's department is not large. But the contrast in the budget during the last two years as against the preceding two years under Progressive rule is so startling that a good point can be made of it on the stump.

Under the preceding administration the attorney general's department was the happy hunting ground for briefless Progressive lawyers who had claims upon the party.

They collected, at the rate of $50 to $75 a day in and out of court, to the tune of about $75,000 a year. Martin is likely to hold his expenses for special counsel fees, in contrast, to an average of $15,000 a year, and a part of that figure is represented in costs of lawyers who were retained before he was elected and who continued at work on cases which were unfinished at the time Martin took over.

Patronage methods in the attorney general's department in 1937 and 1938 represented one of the most flagrant weaknesses in the Progressive record in the last election. Because former Attorney General Orland S. Loomis, defeated two years ago, is again figuring in the state campaign this year, it is important to point out that the special counsel expenses were not always incurred "with his approval."

In fact, Loomis' relations with the executive office and Phil LaFollette occasionally became a little strained because of the latter's insistence upon appointing Progressive lawyers at such frequent intervals to "assist the attorney general" at handsome rates of pay.

On one occasion Loomis was informed of the appointment of a special counsel (in the Buckman prosecution) when the information was released to the press before it was transmitted to him. Nor did that make him beam with pleasure.

CANDIDATE NOTES
If Senator Benny Gettelman of Milwaukee goes through with his threat to run against Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman, it will be the climax of friction which developed over rival claims to leadership of the Dewey delegation from Wisconsin this summer. In terms of experience and background, Zimmerman was undoubtedly the leading man of the delegates. But Gettelman got himself elected chairman, and insisted upon leading and speaking for the Wisconsin representatives.

Arthur Spence of Milwaukee, president of that city's school board, will shortly announce that he is a Progressive candidate for attorney general, Progressive reports say.

James J. Kerwin of Milwaukee, hoping to gain from the remnants of the 1938 Coalition movement and the 1940 Henry sentiment, will be out for U. S. senator, while William R. Callahan, co-chairman of the Garner delegate campaign in the state last spring, is reported to be circulating nomination papers for governor.

BIRTHMARK

Kindly explain the difference between birthmark and nevus, asks a reader, and give some of your practical advice on the best methods of treatment of these blemishes.

In the reader's case the difference amounted to approximately a dime. In some cases it may be as much as $300 to $500. Birthmark is a spot or blemish in the skin, present at birth or becoming apparent in the early weeks of life, due to excessive pigmentation (fawn-color, yellowish, brown or black) or to dilated and overgrown blood vessels. Nevus is what we doctors call it when we're anxious to persuade you to undergo treatment. If you fail to react favorably to that, we back off a bit, get set and tackle you again, this time pronouncing it nevus vascularis. If you don't give up to nevus vascularis, then we can generally flatten you and proceed with the treatment when firmly but gently informed you that you have a hemangioma. Now just relax—

Hemangioma is Greek for tumor or swelling composed of multiplied and dilated blood vessels. Some misguided persons with hemangioma make the mistake of submitting to the efforts of unqualified operators to remove or obliterate the blemish. In any case such a mark may be safely treated only by a doctor of medicine and surgery.

Hemangioma is usually reddish or purplish from pinhead to many square inches in area, flat or slightly elevated above normal skin level (so-called "port-wine stain"), or in some instances having a nodular or lobulated surface, soft, compressible, perhaps becoming larger or more tense and congested during exertion.

The earlier in life any birthmark is treated the more satisfactory the result will be. Treatment should begin before the child is three months old, or at any rate before the end of the first year.

Radium treatment shows its most marked effect in the first two months after application of the state treasurer, thus furnishing Treasurer John M. Smith with two primary opponents. The second is George Greeley of Oshkosh.

radium. Then for four to six months more progressive fading of the mark follows. A single treatment has proved sufficient for nearly a third of the hemangiomas; two and even three treatments have been required for the other two-thirds.

In perhaps a third of the cases of hemangioma radium alone does not entirely obliterate the blemish. In such cases the judgment of the surgeon should decide on further treatment. Methods in greatest favor are solid carbon dioxide for smaller nodules, electro-desiccation and electro-coagulation (diathermy) when the angioma is deep, surgical excision and skin-grafting where the mark is in a situation favorable for such procedure.

Just a Step Behind the News
By Dave Boone

A total of ten billion dollars is asked for defense now, and America is as safe as any nation can be that calls that much money to the colors, strips every cash register for action and lays down one of the heaviest cash barrages in history.

All we have to do now is to get from the appropriating stage into the action stage, with a little emphasis on planning, systematizing, clear thinking and efficient coordination. If Washington would get down to that it would make us feel a lot better.

Every day more and more people are getting the idea that for every new threat all we have to do is to rush up another two or three billion dollars.

There's nothing more dangerous to us than the philosophy, "no enemy can beat us; we've got too much money defending our coasts."

I see where the president emphasizes that sacrifice, work and unity are the things that will keep this nation free. Federal distribution of comfort and class strife ain't as important as it used to be.

Logan, an American Indian, once delivered a short, bitter speech that has been rated at the very top as a sample of eloquence.

The fifth candidate for the assembly from the Second district has secured nomination papers at the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk. He is Lloyd Lang, president of the village of Kimberly and member of the county board. Lang will run on the Republican ticket.

Contributions Rise To $4,029 for Red Cross; $6,000 Aim

A recent spurt has boosted Outagamie county's Red Cross contributions to $4,029.99, it was announced at the Appleton office this morning. The county's quota is $6,000.

The next shipment, including about 200 sweaters and 150 dresses, will go out Sept. 1. A few more workers to knit sweaters and crocheted shawls are needed, with material to be secured at the office, Mabel O. Shannon, executive secretary, stated.

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., Appleton, was relief chairman, has appointed a team to canvass the business district, with returns from this source coming in well, Mrs. Shannon added.

Collins Praised for 'Public Service' in Nazi Movie Showing

Washington—(U)—Representative Collins (D-Miss.), who arranged for congressmen to see a film of German conquest, was praised in the House yesterday as having performed "a great public service."

Representatives Hinshaw (R-Calif.), Schafer (R-Wis.), Vorys (R-Ohio) and Johnson (D-Okla.) rose to praise Collins, after the Mississippi explained that he considered the film, issued by the German government of value to senators and representatives. Schafer said Collins was a pioneer advocate of military mechanization.

Collins invited all members of the house and senate to attend a showing of the film Tuesday night in the house caucus room. Afterward, Rep. O'Toole (D-N.Y.) called it "a terror picture" and suggested that it might be designed to "intimidate" the lawmakers.

Collins informed the house that "there is no mystery about it." He said he had asked a newsreel company to run the film for congressmen after he had seen it at the army war college. He desired, he said, to enlighten the legislators as to dangers this country may face.

City's Population Gain Might Affect Taverns and Taxis

Appleton's population increase may have some effect in regard to various legal requirements, Harry P. Hoeftel, city attorney said this morning.

The council has granted 57 tavern licenses. State law provides one tavern for each 500 people, according to which Appleton's new population of 26,388 would mean 53 taverns. However, each city may have that number of taverns it possessed when the state law was passed, which was 61 here.

A taxicab limitation ordinance before the council provides one cab for each 1,000 population, Hoeftel said.

Dairy Ignores Ban on Sales

Plant to Continue Selling Milk, Cream On Cash-Carry Plan

Unless the Quaker Dairy company, 125 E. Pacific street, suspends business operations, the state department of agriculture will institute court action against the firm, Ralph E. Ammon, director of the department said today.

The Appleton dairy recently was denied a milk distributor's license on the ground that it had violated the state milk price control law by selling below the prescribed levels for milk and cream. The dairy had petitioned the department for a special license to sell milk and cream on a cash and carry basis at a price below the present regulated market price. The petition was refused after a hearing in Appleton.

A spokesman for the company said today that the firm would continue to sell on a cash and carry basis. He contended that there is no place in the law which sets up any authority in the department of agriculture and markets to prevent the firm from giving the consumer a reasonable differential in price on cash and carry milk. He indicated the firm would fight its argument in court if the state department pressed the case.

The dairy's representative said that the plant is paying the producer the established price, but that the consumer is saving the delivery cost by calling at the plant and paying cash.

Public Accepts New Federal Tax With Little Grumbling

The penny has come back into its own.

And it owes its successful comeback to the new federal tax that has been levied on gasoline, cigars, motion pictures, dances, liquor and beer.

There have been complaints, but in general the public has accepted the new tax and with few exceptions pays it without grumbling.

Cigars have gone up from a half cent to three cents per pack. It is not uncommon to hear the dealer say to the customer:

"Have you got an extra penny? There is this new tax, you know."

So the jingle of coppers is heard in trouser pockets once more. One, however, are some other things that have had to fade with the coming of the new tax.

The bartender isn't so apt any more to say, "Have one on the house before you go." Some taverns which have been boosting those big "whooping-sockers" have put the large glasses in storage and have substituted them with a more common size glass.

"We just can't absorb the tax and expect to keep going," the tavernmen explain.

Those gasoline stations which have been advertising so many gallons for $1 have added (some of them in small letters) the phrase "plus three cents tax."

Gasoline dealers state that the new tax seems to have had no effect on the sales. While there is some grumbling about the new tax motorists seem to expect that another will be added in the not too far distant future.

Theater managers state that the new tax seems to have caused no great discontent among moviegoers. Many carry extra pennies to take care of the tax so that larger coins need not be changed.

"Well, I would rather pay 10 cents (tax per dollar than have to fight," is a rather typical remark of the cigar customer, according to a local druggist.

In the meantime the brightness is being worn off those long unused coppers.

Barter System Handicap for Plane-Makers

South American Trade Remains Problem for U. S. Manufacturers

BY DEVON FRANCIS

Associated Press Aviation Editor

Los Angeles—In the last four months one leading American aircraft manufacturing company has "lost" the trade of nine South American republics to European competitors largely because of the latter's barter system.

In ordinary times that would stir interest only in financial circles, but today, with air re-arming and hemisphere defense intimately associated in the public mind, the character of our trade with South America takes on more than a passing significance.

Two facts stand out in our air re-arming drive in relation to South American trade: That continent is virtually a virgin area for the development of air transportation, and the airplane—and particularly the military airplane—has become a symbol of might to Latin American peoples.

The competition between United States and European companies for aircraft sales in South America was dramatized at Lima, Peru, several years ago when Italian military planes and aircraft of our navy frankly vied for top honors in performance before the Peruvian public during an air conference.

Axis Has Advantage

In spite of the European war the two leading European aircraft manufacturing countries having a brisk export trade, Germany and Italy, have pressed their commercial advantages in both the transport and sales fields. Aircraft shipments are not inhibited by a stoppage of ocean surface traffic, airplanes can fly to a buyer.

What "defense" advantage may accrue to a nation or combination of nations enjoying sales advantages on another continent may be open to question, but both the army and the navy have been concerned with the popularity which Italian and German airplanes enjoy in several South American countries.

Peru, Argentina, Colombia, Chile and Brazil have received invitations to send "student" missions to Rome. Some of the invitations have been accepted. In turn, Italian commercial delegations, which include Italian army officers, have visited throughout South America.

Can't Match Offers

The problem facing the American aircraft industry in the drive for sales on that continent has been the same problem facing the manufacturers of other exportable products: a method of meeting European barter agreements. The Southern California Aircraft company, which lost its markets there could not match Europe's barter offers.

It had to have cash.

Like the other American aircraft companies, it had an additional problem. Military aircraft are still on the government's export restriction list. Shipments out of the United States require special licenses.

In a "free economy" opposed to European "managed economies," the American aircraft manufacturer has had recourse only to the export-import bank for financing South American sales on the time-payment plan. At least one of the companies in the Los Angeles area has offered to absorb 20 per cent of the financing.

Exchange Easier

Without money to pay cash at our rate of exchange, the South American republics have found it easier for several years to engage in barter with Germany and Italy. They have traded chic, nitrates, coffee, beef and wheat, among other products, for Europe's military airplanes.

The more realistic of the airplane makers in this area concede that the industry has not been without clean hands in dealing with the South American republics. For years at least two concerns "unloaded" obsolescent planes on South American buyers at fancy prices.

Then European manufacturers appeared on the scene. So prolific was Old World airplane manufacture that, in addition to South America, France as late as the summer of 1939 was offered the opportunity by Berlin to buy German-made warplanes of late types.

Southern California aircraft concerns have received intimations that official Washington plans to mend the unequal competition for South America's aircraft trade.

Two Heifers Fall Into Cave; Rescued After Four Days

Sherwood—(U)—Two heifers, which fell into a cave Monday while grazing on the summit of High cliff, were rescued Thursday after they were discovered by the barking of a dog.

The heifers are owned by the Lettler Brothers who live a half mile west of Sherwood. Although the animals had no food nor water during their imprisonment in the cave, they seemed to have suffered no ill effects. They were hoisted out by a crew of men with ropes and tackle. The ledge containing the cave is on the Lettler property.

Parents See Girl Scouts In Day Camp

Parents of Girl Scouts who attended the first week's sessions of the day camp at Telulah park were visitors at the closing program Thursday. They watched the girls engage in their various camp activities and examined the bulletin board and displays which the girls had constructed during the last four days at the park.

Craft projects for this week were the making of wooden bells decorated with camp scenes and phrases, bracelets, necklaces and pins made from acorns, and paintings, sketches and paper work.

A penny hike, so-called because the flip of a penny determined the direction the hikers took at each crossroad, was the feature of one day's activity for the Lazy Daisy unit. The other unit was known as the Cherry Tree group.

The twin scotties belonging to Mrs. Paul Thiele, one of the camp staff, were camp mascots this week. The girls learned two camp songs, "Father Time" and "Ten Thousand Men," and there outdoor cookery included such typically camp dishes as chipped beef, "Comanche stew," "blushing bunny" consisting of tomato soup with cheese, spaghetti, cheese and tomato, and wiener-filled bread sticks.

The camp staff for the week was Mrs. Charles Norlander, Mrs. Harry Haldeman, Mrs. Martin Downs, Mrs. Roger La Berge, Miss Carla Naber and Mrs. Paul Thiele.

The Girl Scout house will be open only in the mornings on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday during the weeks of day camp, and girls wishing to enrol for day camp or secure information about the Chalk Hills camp may do so those mornings.

The dedication of the new Girl Scout camp at Chalk Hills will take place Sunday, July 21, and invitations will be mailed Saturday to parents, friends and contributors to the camp project. The camp gates will be open at 1:30 that afternoon, but those wishing to go up earlier will find many picnic spots near the Chalk Hills plant where they can eat their picnic lunches.

tion period, but may not meet except at Petain's summons.

The old senate and chamber of deputies legislated themselves out of existence Tuesday and Wednesday by granting him full power to set up a new constitution which then will be submitted to a referendum.

What Petain and his triumvirate of advisers—Pierre Laval, General Maxime Weygand and Adrien Marquet—can make of their new France appeared to depend on how much support Berlin was willing to give.

The state will return to the provincial system of pre-republican France, Petain announced. The 33 former provinces will be re-established with governors to wield the local power which under the third republic was vested in prefects of 90 departments.

Petain's government will include 12 ministers. Some of them will function in Paris if the Germans approve.

Paul Baudoin, foreign minister in the last cabinet of the republic, told an Associated Press correspondent that a "family vote" was being considered.

Each head of a family would have one vote for himself, one for his wife and one for each child, whereas a bachelor would have a single vote.

New High for Air Warfare

casualties, but actual figures on the dead have been cloaked by such official phrases as "several dead" or "a few fatalities."

Shipping Losses

Berlin—(P)—The German high command reported today that 4,320, 213 tons of "enemy merchant shipping space or shipping space useable by the enemy" have been sunk by German naval and air action since the start of the war.

"To this figure of ships sunk must be added over 300 ships damaged primarily by the air force which in part were hit so severely that they are unusable at present or because of necessary repairs will be unusable for months," said the daily communique.

The total given by the high command amounts to more than half the total tonnage lost by Great Britain in the entire World war—7,630,765 tons.

The daily communique, giving new point to Germany's declaration of a "starvation blockade" of the British Isles, divided the sunken shipping space as of July 8 as follows:

By torpedo hits and mines 1,920, 439 tons.
By surface craft and naval means 1,362,460 tons.
By the air force 1,046,313 tons.

Ships Damaged
Renewed assaults on airports, harbors and war industries in southern and central England and the sinking of four merchant ships and a tanker in the English channel were marked up to the credit of German fighting planes and dive bombers.

Nine other merchant ships were reported "severely damaged."

Thus, declared the high command, Germany's successes in the economic warfare have "reached a height perceptible to England."

(The German figures presumably include all allied and neutral shipping space which Germany has destroyed, not merely British.

Chicago Won't See Roosevelt, Newsmen Told

Roosevelt would take a third term nomination if it is handed to him. These included such arrivals as Governor E. D. Rivers of Georgia and Senator Lucas of Illinois.

But the group of sturdy Texans that has backed Vice President Garner for the presidency clung stubbornly to their predictions that Mr. Roosevelt would not be a candidate. They pushed onto a decision to have Wright Morrow, the tall, silvery haired old friend of the vice president, put Garner's name in nomination.

Postmaster General Farley, too, indicated his own name would go before the convention. And backers of Senator Wheeler of Montana said his name would go into the nominating hat if that of President Roosevelt had not been dropped in before Montana is reached on the roll call of states.

The committees began to grind out the routine convention formula today. The national committee was all set to work out a temporary roll of convention delegates, hampered somewhat by the fractional votes many states had worked out so they could get more sight-seeing delegates on the floor.

One of the biggest delegations is that from Texas, which has 46 votes split up into a proportion of about three delegates to one vote. That means the arrangements committee will have to dig up 132 chairs for the Texas delegation.

To make certain such a situation does not arise in the future, the arrangements committee presented the national committee with a resolution that in the future the size of delegations be absolutely limited to two delegates from each congressional district and four at-large with no delegate-at-large to have less than half a vote each.

Senator Wheeler of Montana arrived today from Washington and announced his name would be placed before the Democratic national convention as a candidate for president if President Roosevelt had not announced his candidacy by the time nominations opened.

Wheeler headquarters have been opened here and eight Montana votes are pledged to him. There had been some speculation, however, on whether Wheeler would become a candidate regardless of President Roosevelt's eventual position.

"I will support whomever the Democrats nominate," Senator Wheeler told reporters. He arrived

Pegler Says Union Member Is Entitled to Protection

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—The amendments to the Wagner Act now pending in Congress leave me cold, because none of them gets at the worst defects in a law which was hastily and emotionally mislabeled labor's Magna Charta. I contend that if my government compels me to join a union, which is a private organization, it must undertake to protect my rights as an American citizen within that organization. Therefore, it must be understood that I designate the union to represent me only in collective bargaining with my employer. It has no right to commit me on anything else. It has no right to endorse any political ticket, platform or candidate, or the WPA, or contribute one cent of the money I am compelled to pay as dues, assessments and fees for any purpose to which I am opposed.

Pegler

Having made it necessary for me to join a union in order to enjoy the privilege of working at my lawful occupation, my government must superintend the union elections and prosecute those who commit election frauds. It must see that the ballot is kept pure and that elections are held exactly as provided by the union constitution.

My union must be made to refrain from mob violence or unlawful harassment, coercion or vandalism, because, obviously, my government has no right to herd me into an organization which commits criminal acts. Otherwise my government drives me into a life of crime.

Similarly, my government must compel my union to observe its contracts, because personally I am very conscientious about contracts and will not be a party to repudiation or violation of a contract. Not only a question of conscience but a question of legal liability is involved here.

My government has got to abolish the taxing power of my union. That is absolutely must, because, obviously, my government has no right to force me into a private organization which taxes me. Only my government has the right to tax me. Moreover, the dues, fees and assessments must be regulated by law, because it will be remembered that I am a member only by compulsion of law.

My government must provide guarantees that the money which I do pay into the union treasury will be spent honestly and fully accounted for, just as public funds are supposed to be spent and accounted for, and must prosecute grafters in the union for my protection.

The membership must be wide open to any citizen engaged in the trade of that union without restriction. This means that if I am a Negro the union cannot bar me on account of my color. It also means that the union cannot close its rolls and exclude new members in order to monopolize the existing jobs for those who already belong. If the government says I must join the union in order to exercise my right to work, the union must be compelled to admit me. On the other hand, if a union is exclusive, like the Racquet Club or the Union League, or some of them are, and equally expensive, it has no right to invoke government compulsion under the Wagner Act.

My government must protect me from suspension or expulsion for any other cause than an offense against the public laws of the state or nation. It cannot permit the union to throw me out for criticizing its officers, methods or constitution. As a citizen, I am allowed to criticize the officers, methods and constitution of my state and nation, and the same rights must be guaranteed as to this minor citizenship in the union.

All this, I am afraid, bespeaks rather close supervision of the unions by the government. In short, something very like a Nazi labor front or the Russian system. But they can't have the privileges which the act confers without assuming appropriate responsibilities, and being private organizations, capable of great abuses, they must place themselves within reach of the law.

My government has its faults, but still I trust it more than I trust the unions, especially in view of William Green's endorsement of criminals in positions of power over the rank and file.

NORTHEASTERN GOLFERS HOLD ANNUAL TOURNEY—Despite rain and a terrific wind, some 130 golfers from northeastern Wisconsin clubs gathered here yesterday for the qualifying round of the annual tournament. At the upper right a Clintonville foursome is awaiting its turn at the first tee. The men are, left to right, Dr. W. J. Devine, Dr. G. W. Spong, F. D. Hurley and W. Donaldson. At the upper right, Gus Kent, Sheboygan, left, is talking with M. A. Carroll, Oshkosh, the association secretary. Kent is a familiar figure at every tournament he can reach. However, he couldn't remain for the senior match play event today and take the measure of Dan Steinberg, Sr., Joe Plank and some of Butte des Morts' better known vets. Carroll was reelected secretary of the association yesterday and starts his twenty-fifth year. The association has never had any other secretary. Two of the younger players in the meet are at the lower left. They are Gordon Meikeljohn of New London, left, and Dave Adams, Shawano. They shot 88's. The lower right picture shows the medalist and runner up. The medalist is Harvey Schlagenhauf, right, of Appleton. He shot a 73. The runner up is Sonny Scriber, Oshkosh, left, who shot a 74. NEXT SUNDAY'S GAMES
Freedom at Little Chute.
Dale at Nichols.
Galesburg at Black Creek.
Appleton at Shiocton.
Greenville Merchants at Greenville Grange.

Little Chute — With Shiocton, Freedom, Little Chute, Appleton and Black Creek scoring wins in the second half of the season, four of them will battle Sunday for the right to remain at the head of the league standings. Freedom will trek to Little Chute in one of the main battles while Appleton will clash with Shiocton at the latter park in the other. Black Creek will meet Galesburg which dropped its second half start to Little Chute by a one-sided margin.

A pitchers' battle is expected to take place at Little Chute with Sherman Kapp, formerly with Appleton in the State league, hurling for the Sagoli tribe, and Snook Van Dyke, the outstanding twirler of the league, tossing for the Chuters. Kapp's best efforts this season were wins over Appleton and Nichols. Van Dyke has won seven straight victories. Among them is a no-hitter against Greenville Merchants.

One of the biggest crowds of the season is expected to be at the fracas with many Freedom fans following their team. Shorty Plaman will don the mask and mitt for the visitors while Dazz Van Thiel will be behind the log.

Appleton will trek to Shiocton to battle Johnson and Co. The Shiocton upet Greenville Merchants last Sunday largely because of the wilderness of Dahmrow. Merchant's moundsman, who walked nine men. Nathrop took over and fanned nine men in four innings but the damage already was done. Tommy Reider of Appleton allowed only three hits against the Grange and becomes the logical choice for Sunday's game. Bill Besch will be on the receiving end. Mike Miller will toe the mound for Shiocton with Coe on the receiving end. If Miller is 'hot' the Adler Braus are in for a drubbing which Manager Johnson of the Shioctos would like, just to get Gene Kloos, Appleton pilot, up in arms.

Dale at Nichols
Dale will hit the highway to Nichols. Both clubs were bumped off last Sunday with Nichols losing to Freedom and Dale to Black Creek. Poppy is expected to be on the mound for Dale with Cornell receiving. M. Krull will show on the hill for Nichols with J. Krull catching.

Black Creek will be host to Galesburg at the Creeker park and the co-champs will attempt to set another straight win record as they did before stopped by Little Chute. Miller or Shaw will be called 'on for mound duty with C. Le Capitaine receiving. Lefty Neuman will show on the hill for the Gales with Nelson receiving. The Gales finished in the 300 class in the first half.

Greenville Merchants trek to Greenville Grange in a neighborhood feud which should produce plenty of action. Manager R. C. Trauba uncovered a promising looking twirler in Shorty Natrop who fanned nine men in four innings. With Natrop in form, the Grangers will have a battle on their hands. Schleutweiler will be on the hill for the home club. Schultz will do the receiving for the visitors with Falk or Schuler receiving for the Grange.

Superior, Grand Forks Northern Loop Leaders

Minneapolis — (P) — On a 17-hit blast against Winnipeg, which gave Superior a 13-5 victory, the Blues drew abreast of Grand Forks for leadership of the Northern Baseball league today.

Each club had a .603 percentage. Grand Forks muffed its chance to keep ahead of the Blues by dropping a close decision to Wausau, 3-2. Three bases on balls, an error and a hit gave Wausau all its runs in the first inning and Orphan's six-hit pitching never let the Chiefs catch up.

Skaalen, Crookston's pitching ace, lost a heart breaker when Eau Claire made all the four hits he gave good to win, 3-0. Fargo-Moorhead romped through Duluth, 9-3, finishing with a four-run outburst in the ninth.

Only 14, but Youth Has Good Reputation As a Tennis Referee

New York — (P) — Four years ago, when Bennett Glazer wanted to watch the national singles tennis championships at Forest Hills, he had to crawl through a hole in the fence.

This year, he expects to walk through the front door, for who ever heard of a referee sneaking in through fence-holes, even if he is only 14 years old?

Bennett's debut as an official was made this week at the New York state clay court championships, which were to complete quarter-final round play today. A shortage of referees was worrying Dan Johnson, chairman of the tournament committee, when up stepped this 90-pound lad and asked if he could help. Johnson waved him out to the court, here Charles Rider of the University of North Carolina and Tom Moroto of Japan were waiting to begin their match.

Bennett asked if they cared whether he refereed. They didn't, and while an amazed gallery looked on the kid speeded the players through three close sets without a single beef. Johnson was so impressed that since then Bennett has been receiving arbitrating assignments regularly.

Miami, Fla. — Jack Larrimore, 1401, Miami Beach, outpointed Bobby Britton, 1421, Miami, (10),

Robert Kamrath of Houston, Tex., No. 3, also played a three-set match, winning over Olin Parks of Mishawaka, Ind. 6-2, 7-9, 6-3. Bill Talbert of Cincinnati, No. 4, defeated George Bauman of Chicago, 6-2, 6-2.

Darkness halted the match between Charles Hare of England and Bobby Carrothers of Colorado, Calif. Each had won one set, 6-3, and one game in the third set.

Riggs had to go three sets yesterday to eliminate Tom Brown of San Francisco, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4, but Miss Marble had no trouble in downing Mary Ann Davis of Columbus, O., 6-1, 6-2.

Mary Hardwick Faces Gracy Wheeler Today At Indianapolis Meet

Indianapolis — (P) — The singles match between Gracy Wheeler of Santa Monica, Calif., seeded No. 3, and foreign-seeded Mary Hardwick of England was one of the main attractions today at the 53rd annual western tennis tournament.

The start of the day's play was advanced three hours to run off events postponed by rain yesterday, when only five matches were played and one of those was incomplete.

In the men's singles Welby Van Horn of Los Angeles, second-seeded, met Robert Smid of Chicago. Top-seeded Bobby Riggs of Chicago had an afternoon match with the winner of the tussle between Ronald Lubin of Los Angeles, No. 5, and Jimmy Everett of Chicago.

Other feature attractions in the women's division were the singles matches between top-seeded Alice Marble of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Jane Wagner of Cincinnati and between Virginia Wolfenden of Berkeley, Calif., seeded No. 2, and Geraldine Leitner of Toledo, O.

Play was scheduled in the men's and mixed doubles also.

Riggs had to go three sets yesterday to eliminate Tom Brown of San Francisco, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4, but Miss Marble had no trouble in downing Mary Ann Davis of Columbus, O., 6-1, 6-2.

Open Voting on All-Star Game

Packers Will Oppose College Aces Aug. 29 In Chicago Classic

Chicago — (P) — Balloting began today in the nation wide poll to name the 1940 college football squad which will oppose Green Bay's Packers, professional champions, in Chicago's seventh annual All Star game at Soldier Field the night of Aug. 29.

At the close of the poll, July 23, the two ends, two tackles, two guards, center, quarterback, two halfbacks and fullback receiving the most votes will be delegated to start against the Packers.

To qualify for the All Star game a player must have completed his college eligibility last year.

After the player squad is determined, another poll to select the All Star coaches will be held. Leading vote getters from each of five areas — the east, south, far west, western conference and the midwest area outside the Big Ten — will comprise the five man coaching staff.

In this year's polls, the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., sponsor of the event directed by the Chicago Tribune sports editor, Arch Ward, will have the cooperation of 385 newspapers and radio stations in 47 states and the District of Columbia. Delaware is not represented.

The All Stars and pro title holders are all square after six battles, each having won two, lost two and tied two. The New York Giants won last year, 9 to 0, to give the professionals their second victory.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Bucky Walters, Reds — Won his twelfth game, limiting Brooklyn to five hits.

Harry Danning, Giants — Pound out three hits as Cards bowed in 11-inning night game.

Cedar Rapids Takes Pasting From Decatur

By the Associated Press
Cedar Rapids leads the Three Eye league by two games, but the Red Raiders were wondering how long they would hold up after their performance last night.

They battled Decatur on scoreless terms for five innings. The Commies blasted away for four runs in the sixth and added another in the seventh. Whereupon the league leaders fell apart and Decatur ran up eight more runs to win in a 13 to 0 rout.

In the only other game, second place Clinton edged nearer the leaders by nosing out Springfield 4 to 3 in the last inning. Rain prevented the Madison-Evanston and Waterloo-Moline games.

Butte des Morts Member Shoots 36-37-73; Club Wins Team Event

Shooting against par, a wet, soggy course and a northeast wind that at times was almost a gale, Harvey Schlagenhauf of Butte des Morts Golf club was medalist at the qualifying round of the annual Northeastern Golf association tournament here yesterday. He shot 36-37-73, one over par.

Charles Scriber of Oshkosh turned in a 74 and Harry Masse of Green Bay Shorewood a 75. Bud Wendlandt, New London, the defending champion playing as a Shawano club member, shot a 78.

The team event went to Butte des Morts with a 392 total. Oshkosh was second with 402. The Appleton team and the scores were Dan Steinberg, Jr., 79, Ralph McGowan 77, Heber Pelkey 80, Bud Fisher 84 and Schlagenhauf 73.

Other team scores were Sheboygan Riverdale 410, Green Bay Shorewood 420, Green Bay Oneida

Miss Quinlan Does It Again

Comes From Behind to Beat Jeanne Cline, Golf Meet Favorite

South Bend, Ind. — (P) — Eileen Quinlan, 16-year-old Irish lassie from St. Paul who wins her matches the hard way — by coming from behind — and Georgia Tainter of Fargo, N. D., North Dakota's senior and junior women's champion, clashed today for the women's western junior golf championship.

Miss Quinlan, who learned golf by experimenting and without any professional instruction, had to go overtime again yesterday to defeat Jeanne Cline of Bloomington, Ill., a top favorite, 1 up in 20 holes.

Wednesday she came from far behind to beat Margaret Gunther of Memphis, Tenn., in 20 holes and Tuesday she rallied to lick Phyllis Otto of Atlantic, Ia., tournament medalist, on the eighteenth green.

Miss Tainter, on the other hand, hasn't had a match go to the eighteenth. Yesterday she defeated Indiana's last contender — Mae Louise Davidson of Leesburg — 4 and 2. Her previous match-play victims were Mary Ann Finch of Des Moines, Ia., and Ed Dell Wortz of Fort Smith, Ark.

The Fargo youngster has been rated one of the tournament favorites.

In the championship consolation fight two of the tournament's longest hitters clashed — Miss Otto and Sue Land of Richmond, Ind.

Miss Otto beat Barbara Batke of Minneapolis yesterday. Miss Land won by default from Dorothy Campbell of St. Louis.

Today the 16 low players are competing for the championship with the next 16 in B flight, the next 16 in C flight and another 16 in D flight. There also are 16 in the senior flight, for golfers 50 years of age and over. The championship flight is scheduled to do 18 holes this morning and another 18 this afternoon. Tomorrow morning.

V-END OF JOAN'S CAREER
Poor Joan! From the height of fame and success, she was brought down. She was cast into prison by the Burgundians, a "prize of war."

It is an odd fact that the Burgundians were interested in her chiefly from the viewpoint of money. They hoped to obtain a big ransom for her return.

If the former Dauphin, King Charles VII, had tried hard enough, he could have raised money to pay for her freedom. As it turned out, he was her friend in the time of her success, but deserted her in the time of her sorrow. She was left in prison month after month.

Joan made an attempt to escape. In her cell was a small window, but it was believed no one would dare to jump from it to the ground.

Joan of Arc found guilty.

far below. Joan made the leap, and was badly hurt. If we may believe the old record, the fall was 60 feet.

The guards picked the prisoner from the ground, and for days she lay between life and death. Then her strength came back.

Soon afterwards, the Burgundians gave her to the English army, after being paid a sum of money. The English turned her over to a church court for trial as a heretic and witch.

At the trial Joan was asked hundreds of questions. Her answers have been saved, and they give us a great deal of the story of her life from early childhood to the time she was captured. There also were questions about why she had tried to escape from prison.

The Maid of Orleans was brave during her trial, and at moments she seemed merry, though she knew that in the end she might be condemned. The court judged her guilty. She was taken back to prison, and on May 30, 1431, was put to death. She then was only 19 years of age.

Joan of Arc ranks as one of the heroines of history. Some years after her death, the Pope of Rome ordered a new study of her case, and this time she was declared innocent.

Twenty years ago, Joan of Arc was canonized as a saint. The work she tried to do for France went on after she gave up her life. The English at last gave up Normandy and other parts of France except Calais.

Building Boom Seen at Neenah For This Year

Estimates for First Six Months Double
Same Period in 1939

Neenah — The building industry in Neenah is well on its way toward a new all-time record this year, and if construction during the second half of the year increases in the same proportion that it did during the first six months, a new mark will be certain.

The increase in construction estimates during the first six months of 1940 over the corresponding period of last year totaled $187,113. Building valuation in Neenah during the first six-month period amounted to $336,963, while during the corresponding period last year it totaled only $188,650.

This year's home construction also is well ahead of last year. There were 44 new dwellings constructed in Neenah during the first six months of the year against 34 during the first six-month period of 1939. Indications are that during the next few months of this year at least, construction in Neenah will continue at its rapid pace if it doesn't increase. Contractors, it is said, now are figuring on several more new homes, some of which will get underway this month.

Five permits for new dwellings have been granted this month as well as several large permits for additions and remodeling to business and manufacturing establishments.

Accounting for the large increase during the first half of this year over last year were principally three building booms during March, April and June.

Construction estimates during March exceeded those of the same month of 1939 by $179,775, building costs having amounted to $188,400 that month against $6,625 during March of 1939. There was an increase of $20,720 during April of this year over the same month of 1939. Last April's total was $62,140 against $41,420 during April of last year. There also was a $9,000 increase in June. During the other three months this year, there were slight decreases.

If home building during the second half of 1940 continues as it did during the first six months, there will be a new record in home construction.

There were 82 new homes constructed last year, 34 of which were erected during the first six months, while during the first six months of this year, 44 new homes were built. The last five months as well as this month have been conducive to home construction, for eight were built in March, 10 in April, 15 in May and 10 in June.

Since 1931, when the building inspector's office started keeping tabulation of new homes, 442 new dwellings have been built in Neenah, and that figure includes those for which permits have been granted this month.

The number of dwellings built each year are as follows: 1939, 82; 1938, 66; 1937, 52; 1936, 54; 1935, 39; 1934, 15; 1933, 18; 1932, 23, and 1931, 44.

The county and district tournaments were held at the Neenah High school courts.

Menasha—The board of education at a meeting Wednesday night at Menasha High school hired three new teachers to replace Miss Jeanette Fox, Miss Naomi Parkinson and Miss Marjorie Jex.

Miss Parkinson has accepted a position at Whitefish Bay, while Miss Jex will be married this fall, and Miss Fox will teach physical education at Vassar college.

The new teachers are Miss Marjorie Koop, Miss Mildred Rhymer and Miss Isabel Schultz.

Miss Koop, who will teach world history and serve as school librarian at Menasha High school, was graduated from St. Teresa college where she majored in social science and minored in history and English, and in addition, she carried specialized training in piano and organ. While at St. Teresa, she participated in extra curricular activities, especially music and drama, having taken part in orchestra, Shakespearean plays, cantata and operetta. She was a member of the German club. For the last two years, she taught at Abrams, Wis., and at present she is attending library school at Wisconsin.

Miss Rhymer will teach kindergarten at Jefferson school. She is a graduate of Milwaukee State Teachers college and has had three years experience in the public schools at Stevens Point. While at Milwaukee Teachers college, Miss Rhymer earned her degree in kindergarten and primary courses. Her extracurricular activities were in Glee club, French club and athletics. She also was a substitute at Glendale, a suburb of Milwaukee.

Miss Schultz will teach physical education in the junior and senior high schools. She attended Lawrence college and then transferred to the University of Wisconsin where she received her degree in the department of physical education for women. Miss Schultz has professional preparation in physical therapy, health education, posture and in apparatus work and sports. Her extracurricular work included experience as camp counselor, member of the university chorus, Dolphin club and physical education club and women's athletic association.

The board also rejected coal bids and authorized advertising for new bids as well as arranged for auditing of books by Norman N. Schomisch, certified public accountant, and the purchase of supplies.

The contract for replacing tubes in the Butte des Morts school boiler was awarded to the Northern Boiler and Structural Iron Works, Appleton, the lowest bidder, at a cost of $295.

Neenah—Attendance at Neenah's new swimming pool during the first 10 days of this month totaled 10,156, boasting the number of swimmers since the pool opened June 1 to 27, 1939, according to Paul Stacker, manager of the recreation center.

Slacker pointed out that the number of swimmers so far this month exceeds the number at the bathing beach throughout July of last year. At the beach last July were only 8,841 swimmers.

The highest peak day so far this month was Wednesday when 1,750 went in swimming, while the high tide load during an hour was on Monday, when 600 persons used the pool within an hour.

Henry Dupont and Harold Bunker topped last year's championship by defeating Donald Erdmann and Richard Miller in the finals.

Churches are Being Improved

Remodel Buildings;
St. John's Parish
Plans Fall Festival

Twin City churches this summer have turned considerable attention to remodeling and rebuilding programs.

The usual cleanup work is in progress at First Congregational church in Menasha with the new program being the modernizing of the kitchen, installation of new plumbing fixtures in that room and a shifting of the steam table to make for more efficiency.

St. John's parish in Menasha is planning no renovation but members are busy preparing for the annual fall festival which is to be held Aug. 22, 23, 24 and 25. Adolph Teitz will be chairman.

A new cement floor has been placed in the basement of the First Fundamental church and board members are meeting this evening to discuss further plans for repairs. Wallace Garfield is chairman of the board and the Rev. W. G. Wittenborn is secretary.

No action has been taken on the proposed building program at First Presbyterian church. Some of the proposals which have been submitted to members of the parish include a new church built on a new site, the present church rebuilt or a 10-year building program.

The First Evangelical church has been remodeled and an addition built at a cost of $30,000. The church was dedicated in June.

The parsonage of the Immanuel Lutheran church, was painted about a month ago.

The Council of St. Paul's English Lutheran church has authorized repairs and renovation of church buildings but more definite details will be worked out within a few weeks.

Motorboat Club Discusses Its Activities for Season

Waipaca — The first official meeting of the Chain of Lakes Motorboat club was held in the Amusement hall at the Wisconsin Veterans Home Wednesday evening and was in charge of Commodore Waldo Hanson. Nearly all of the 24 members were present as was the chairman of the town of Farmington Floyd Taylor.

The purpose of the organization which was formed a year ago, is to foster a courteous, sympathetic and cordial feeling between motor boat operators on the chain of lakes. This was discussed at the meeting as well as all criticism brought to the attention of the members from fishermen and boat owners, the plan being to eliminate friction.

An educational program of "safety on the water" is being planned for the near future, the program to include instruction on the proper load for rowboats, especially when equipped with outboards; proper handling of canoes and long distance swimmers accompanied by rowboats.

Waupaca County Democrats Considering Coalition Move

Manawa — Formation of a coalition of Progressive and Democrats in Waupaca county was regarded as a possibility following a meeting of county Democrats at the I.O.O.F. hall here Tuesday evening. Approximately sixty persons attended.

Joining Progressive and Democratic forces in an attempt to break up the present grip on county offices now held by Republicans was voiced by a number of individuals at the meeting and several others stated that they believed such an arrangement would be the only solution to enable capable candidates in the Progressive and Democratic ranks to obtain county offices.

Olto R. Schwantes, Clintonville, candidate for member of the assembly two years ago; was among those who advocated a coalition ticket, stating that he was of the opinion that the Progressives would be interested in such a movement.

"As matters now stand," he explained, "the Democrats and Progressives have extremely tough sledding in the county but if we united our support and put a strong slate of candidates from the two parties in the field, we could give present office holders an awful battle."

Schwantes added that "it might even be a good idea to approach the Republicans regarding a coalition ticket."

Others who spoke in favor of Schwantes' proposal were Pat Averill, Fremont, and Mike Calnan. Manawa. Calnan declared that he believed the logical time "to make the break" would be following the national Democratic convention in Chicago.

"It's going to make a lot of difference in this county who the Democrats draft for president and vice president," he asserted. "I believe, however, that a Democratic and Progressive coalition would be a great thing for both parties."

No definite action was taken at the meeting but a committee will be appointed by A. J. Rieck, Wauwega, county chairman who presided at the meeting, to interview possible candidates in an effort to put a full Democratic slate in the county field and also to study the proposed coalition. The results of the committee's investigation will be announced at a meeting to be held the latter part of the month.

President Roosevelt's New Deal came in for its share of praise during the evening. Among those who spoke briefly commending the president's program were James Carew, Waupaca postmaster, Rieck, and Schwantes, while Frank A. Moldenhauer and Earl Moldenhauer, Clintonville, Mrs. Eugene Flanagan, Manawa, Raymond Wright, Tola, and D. M. Christensen, Scandinavia, were others to discuss the county situation.

The latter was the only speaker to offer any criticism of the present national administration, stating that "there's been an awful lot of spending going on the last eight years." He read parts of an address given by President Roosevelt in 1932, which was reprinted in a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post, emphasizing the necessity of balancing the budget.

"The Republicans are going to have a lot of fun with material such as this," he said.

School Meeting — A sum of $4,000 was voted for school purposes at the annual meeting of District No. 2, town of Little Wolf and village of Manawa, at the grade school auditorium Monday evening. The amount represents an increase of $500 over last year.

L. M. Lamkins was unanimously re-elected director for a term of three years. Other officers include Mrs. Clarence Sturm, clerk, and Charles E. Hoffmann, treasurer.

According to the census report released by Mrs. Sturm, there are 271 youngsters between the ages of 4 and 20 in the district, seven more than in 1939. The village of Manawa has 97 boys and 102 girls, and the town of Little Wolf, 38 boys and 34 girls. Sixteen youngsters became of age in 1940 and were dropped from the census.

In 1939, there were 132 boys and 132 girls in the district, 74 in the township and 190 in the village.

Three Counties Adopt Better Dairy Program

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau — Three more counties are under the state department of agriculture's quality dairy improvement program. It was announced here today. They are Vernon, Waupaca, and Manitowish.

The program, involving the encouragement of voluntary efforts of farm producers to improve the quality of their milk, was inaugurated in Outagamie county some months ago.

Mr. Koten said, whereas a year ago the debt was $3,391. To offset the debt there is due the district slightly more than $10,000 in tuition money, plus an estimated $1,000 from federal and state aid.

However, while all bills are paid except the note of $1,716.51, there is no cash on hand and the high school tuition money amounting to $9,940.32 due from the various outside townships and villages will not be available until after tax paying time in January. Consequently, the city must borrow what money it needs between now and the first part of 1941 to pay running expenses of the cost of operating local public schools.

dying to see her! Do turn on a light, Jan."

"I will," Frank pulled the tassel cord of a floor lamp. "Oh, don't stare," Jan begged. "She's very pleasant and friendly. No one heeded her, however, and when Rose, wearing a white flannel suit topped by a white lamb coat, a sweeping white hat pulled over her eyebrows, rounded the newel post she saw judgment awaiting her. Drawing on white gloves, holding a cigarette between her heavily rouged lips, she looked at them with evident amusement.

"Hello, everybody," she smiled coming into the room, taking the cigarette in her fingers. "What is this, a shadow box lineup?"

"I should stand up, but I'm much too comfortable here," Derek greeted her lazily over his shoulder.

She laughed, a rich, generous throaty laugh. "What is this? A fisherman with manners and a continental accent? You intrigue me, young man."

"I won't for long," he mocked. "I don't own a suit of clothes and I haven't a dollar."

"And I'm no fairy god-mother," she said.

Their eyes met challengingly. He said: "I suspect your game, beautiful!" Hers said: "Just what are you doing here?"

Unhappy Norma — Jan saw this interchange and misinterpreted it. Rising to her feet, she introduced Rose to the other four by the fire. Rose, exuding an aura of expensive, tantalizing perfume, stepped close and offered her hand to Lance. He looked up at her with hungry eyes.

"I'm glad you're staying here," he said. "I hope you'll come in and talk to me sometimes. It gets terribly dull."

"I will," she promised. Her glance rested a moment on Norma, flicked over Frank, passed on indifferently. "May I have a key?" she asked Jan. "I'm dining at the Club and I sincerely hope I don't come home until the wee sma' hours."

"You won't," Derek murmured, turning his face back to the fire. When Jan handed her a key she suggested, "If you are afraid to walk over alone from the garage late at night, I'm sure Johnny will be glad to drive home with you. I told him about you when he left and suggested he might be of service."

Rose smiled her thanks and started toward the door. Just before she went out she turned and called to Derek: "Goodbye, fisherman!"

"Lord, she's beautiful," Lance muttered, entranced. "I can't figure why she ever chose this place to live."

"She told me she had to choose between cheap rent and cheap clothes," Jan explained.

"Nothing cheap about her clothes," Frank remarked. "And did you get a look at those wristloads of jewelry?"

"Fakes," Derek stated.

"I'll be nice having her here," Lance went on. "Perhaps she'll take you over to the club with her occasionally. Jan. They have a marvelous pool over there."

The excited interest in his tone made Norma wince. She bent her head lower over her interminable knitting. Yet, she pondered, why should I begrudge him an interest in a lovely woman? Poor darling, existence is a pretty dull affair for him. I probably bore him to distraction, but he tolerates me. I'm grateful even for that much.

Norma was twenty-four, had earned her teacher's certificate at twenty-one in the University of California. She was straight and tall and so very plain. Her parents were middle-class tradespeople in a small town near San Francisco. She visited them occasionally, out of duty, always glad to leave and come back to this shadow box lineup?

She dreaded the coming of summer vacation when she would be expected to stay home and help her mother with the younger children and the housekeeping. She thought, defiantly, of going to Hawaii or Alaska or some other enchanting place. Yet, resolving this, she knew she would never do it. She would go no distant place without Lance.

No Tried and True Formula — Longingly, so many times, she wished there were some tried and true formula for winning a man's love. Gladly would she have married Lance and taught school the rest of her life to care for him.

It wasn't, she often considered, fair that Jan should have all the burden of him, for Jan was young and high-spirited and pretty, and certainly entitled to a man and home of her own.

Yet none of them this night, least of all Norma, expected that which later transpired. Each of them, intent on his own problems, living through the warm, sleepy days of April, seeing the beaches, the concessions, the lunch stands, come to life with the growing influx of people, was too preoccupied to notice the change in Lance until that change was accomplished.

Jan noticed it first. In the beginning, not understanding what motivated him, she rejoiced at his awakened interest in the world about him, was pleased when he commanded Frank to take him on an excursion of beach apparel shops, was amazed when he came home with gay colored sport shirts and matching silk scarves. "Here's the profits on the Clipper model Frank sold for me," he said. "I guess I went berserk, honey. I meant you to have a new dress."

"I'd never wear it," she insisted stoutly. "I'd much rather admire you."

Donning one of his purchases, a knitted beige sport shirt with bright blue-checked scarf, he surveyed himself in the mirror of the big oak bureau, an unnatural flush on his high cheekbones. "Will she like it, Jan? Will she notice?"

Thinking he referred to Norma, she teased. She'll think you've gone completely 'Hollywood,' old darling. Is spring responsible for this rash of color or are you just waking up to Norma's charms?"

"Norma?" he questioned blankly.

There was a light tap on the door. Lance wheeled his chair over to open it. His thin face was pathetic with eagerness as he cried: "Rose! I thought you'd never come!"

Her laugh was indulgent, caressing. "You knew I'd come. I've so much exciting gossip for you. But what have you done to yourself, Lance? You look marvelous!"

He reached avidly for her hands, bent over and kissed them. Her heavy bracelets, seemingly an integral part of her person, clanked softly. She looked over Lance's head into Jan's alarmed eyes.

"Hello," she smiled. "Didn't you know I'm running a one-woman scandal bureau? I collect all the dirt at the Club and carry it home to this brother of yours."

"It — it's most thoughtful of you," Jan answered lamely. She saw the expression in Lance's eyes as she passed him on the way out. She knew, then, Lance was in love with Rose Cornwall.

Stichtman Herd Has Average Of 503 Pounds of Fat in Year

The Herman C. Stichtman herd of 11 registered Holsteins produced an average of 503.2 pounds of butterfat to lead production in the Outagamie County Dairy Herd Improvement association for the 1939-40 fiscal year. Two cows in the Stichtman herd were high in individual production with 678.2 and 603.8 pounds of butterfat.

The association had 23 herds completing the 12-month period with a total of 436 cows or an average of 19 cows per herd. Seventeen cows produced over 500 pounds of butterfat. Seventy-eight cows produced over 400 pounds of butterfat. Fifteen pairs of twin calves were born during the association year. Sixteen cows in the association have testing records of a ton or more of butterfat. Three herd sires were reported proved in the association by the federal department of dairy records. The association average for the year was 9,225 pounds of milk with a 3.59 test or 331.4 pounds of butterfat.

The Charles F. Carpenter herd averaged 444.1 pounds of butterfat for second place in production. Third was the Herd of Fred and Emil Kaphingst with 395.4 pounds of fat. The George Palmbach herd was fourth with 371.6 pounds, and the Emil Uhlenbrauch herd fifth with 300.6 pounds.

Following are owners and the number of cows producing 400 or more pounds of butterfat for the year: Fred and Emil Kaphingst 14, Outagamie County Asylum farm 12, Herman Stichtman 10, Charles Carpenter 7, John Dobberstein 5, Emil Uhlenbrauch 4, Joseph Landwehr, Jr., 4, Harvey Maass 3, Hilmer Mueller 3, George Laird 3, Walter Wiekert 3, George Palmbach 2, Norman Maass 2, Arthur Lembecke 2, Thomas Brownson and Son 2, Jacob Zepnick 1 and August Biebow 1.

Although the number of sows farrowing in Wisconsin this spring was the same as estimated for the spring of last year, the number of spring pigs raised was about 2 per cent larger this year. Wisconsin's spring pig crop this year is estimated at 2,102,000 head, and it is the largest crop reported in the state since 1926.

Fewer sows will be bred for fall farrowing than last year and despite the largest spring pig crop in 14 years, Wisconsin's total pig crop for the year probably will be smaller than last year's.

Estimates for the United States show that the spring pig crop this year was 8 per cent smaller than the one in 1939. Only Wisconsin and three other states reported larger pig crops this year.

Low mass will be celebrated at 8 o'clock Sunday morning at St. Lawrence Catholic church, Nava-rino, and at 9 o'clock at St. Denis church, Shiocton. High mass will be at 10 o'clock Sunday morning at St. Mary church, Black Creek.

Thistles Must Be Controlled In Early Stage

Cutting Should be Done When They are In Budding Period

Much of the annoyance from Canada thistles in grain bundles this fall can be eliminated by taking steps now to control them, according to J. F. Magnus, Outagamie county agricultural agent.

Where Canada thistles are found growing in oats or barley, the grain may be cut for hay, thus cutting the thistles with it. For most effective control, George Briggs, state extension agronomist, finds that the cutting should be done when the thistles are in the early budding stage. This prevents the thistles from going to seed and the plants are still tender and immature enough for cattle to eat them with the grain for hay. If thistles are allowed to grow, they will go to seed, spreading by wind during the season, and will form coarse, sticky plants that are very troublesome in the bundles when shocked, stacked, or threshed. Cutting grain crops as hay is also one of the best ways to protect new seedlings that might otherwise be smothered out where weeds are too thick and grain lodges.

If the grain was seeded down to alfalfa, nothing further need be done. If alfalfa has not been seeded, the ground may be worked up and alfalfa seeded any time up to July 15, if the season is favorable. It is important, however, that a good firm seed bed be prepared in order that the young tender plants may have contact with the moisture supply in the soil below.

Briggs sees little economy in using chemicals against thistles in fields as long as alfalfa is proving so effective in checking them out. The money that otherwise would be spent on chemicals might be better spent on lime and alfalfa seed, which, besides choking out the thistles, will serve as a good hay crop.

4-H Leaders to Have Booth at State Fair

Outagamie County 4-H Leaders federation at a meeting at Black Creek Wednesday evening voted to set up a booth at the state fair next month. The committee in charge includes Merle Nelson, Mrs. Emil Krueger and Mrs. Ed Ziegler. The federation also will maintain a committee composed of Mrs. Chris Roepecke, Mrs. Frank Tubbs, Lucille Slevert and Marion Wiekert in charge.

Keep Old Paint Pails Away From Livestock, Farmers are Warned

Old paint pails, paint brushes and other materials containing white lead are a hazard to the lives of cattle and other livestock when left strewn around farm property, according to J. F. Magnus, county agricultural agent.

Because lead is poisonous to all species of livestock, care should be taken to place materials that have been in contact with paint where livestock cannot get at them. Licking paint out of old paint pails strewn onto the premises is a common habit of all livestock, especially cattle, Magnus said. Old paint containers should either be placed out of reach of all livestock or be buried deep in the ground.

Announce Crop Insurance Plan

Establish Single Closing Date for Taking Applications

Provisions for the 1941 "all-risk" wheat crop insurance program have been announced by the state agricultural conservation committee in a bulletin received by County Agent J. F. Magnus. The provisions virtually are the same as those carried out for 1940.

Walter Katterhenry, chairman of the committee, announced that the most important change for 1941 is the establishment of a single and earlier closing date for the acceptance of applications. The regulations provide that winter wheat producers must apply and pay their premium before the crop is seeded or by August 31. Those dates are two weeks to a month earlier than were in effect for this year's program.

Applications for insurance on spring wheat must be made by Feb. 28 and also will be taken at the county offices.

In determining premiums to be paid for insurance, Katterhenry explains that the wheat yields of the year 1939 will be added. This means, he says, that the premiums will be based on individual farm histories for the 10 year period, 1930-1939 and the county histories of the 14 year period, 1926-1939. The insurance covers 75 per cent of the average yield. The protection is against natural hazards as drought, wind, hail, fire, disease, winter killing, insects, etc. Insurance will not be issued on an acreage above the farmer's wheat allotment under the AAA program.

The Federal Crop Insurance corporation administers the insurance program. Experiments with rats indicate that addition of calcium carbonate to the diet diminishes the amount of harmful lead accumulating in the body.

Bay at 7:45 Monday evening. The Greenville Girls 4-H chorus will sing.

A cow in the Guy Daniels herd produced 1,635 pounds of milk containing 78.4 pounds of butterfat for first place in individual production. A total of 156 cows in the association produced 40 or more pounds of fat during the month.

Third were the Guy Daniels grade Guernsey herd and the George Stingle Brown Swiss and Guernsey herd with averages of 40 pounds. The Lester Schmidt-Holstein herd was fourth with an average of 39.9 pounds, and the Elmer Gosse herd fifth with 39.3 pounds.
